WEEKS FAVORED FOR BAY STATE SENATE FIGHT

Attitude Of Coolidge In Choosing Nominee In Massachusetts Unknown

ASSOCIATE OF PRESIDENT

G. O. P. Will Seek Advice And Influence Of President For Campaign

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.

Washington — Robert Lincoln O'Brien, editor of the Boston Herald, had luncheon with President Coolidge Monday—the first of the editorial fraternity to sit at the White House table under the new administration.

Mr. O'Brien, who watches Massachusetts politics with an eagle eye from year to year, brought tidings of the situation there.

"There's a rather interesting senatorial situation in Massachusetts," said Mr. O'Brien to the writer Monday. "If things had been normal Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, would have been a very hard man to beat next year, and consequently the Republican nomination would not have been so earnestly sought after."

As the nomination of Mr. Coolidge for president seems to be foreordained, there is a feeling that with a Massachusetts man running for the presidency, "he will be helped immensely."

Everybody in Massachusetts seems to be pleased that a man from New England is in the White House and I believe Mr. Coolidge will carry the state by an overwhelming majority—in fact a sweep as big as McKinley had over Bryan.

"Naturally the people of Massachusetts would like to see the Republican nomination go to John W. Weeks, secretary of war. If he wants it, there's a feeling that when Senator Walsh beats Mr. Weeks for reelection in 1918, the latter suffered an undeserved defeat. It would be poetic justice to restore him if he wants the senatorship."

"The friends of Louis Coolidge predict that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination, and that William M. Butler, Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts, will be another."

COOLIDGE VIEW UNCERTAIN
There is no telling what the attitude of President Coolidge will be toward the selection of a Republican nominee for United States senator in his own state. Usually a president is consulted about such things. Mr. Wilson had much to do with the New Jersey senatorial primaries when he was in the White House and while Mr. Harding outwardly refrained from interference in Ohio his close friends did participate in the 1922 primaries there.

There has always been talk of Mr. Weeks returning to the senate where he made a good record leaving the majority of his party associates to vote for the federal reserve act when the Democrats were in control of congress and otherwise showing an independence of action which was widely commented on at the time. Mr. Weeks is also considered as the most likely successor to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in case he ever decides to retire from public life.

MELLON VALUED HIGHLY
Mr. Mellon is valued highly by President Coolidge and practically everybody in the administration would dislike to see him retire, but he has been represented at times as desiring of leaving the arduous task of public office for a less active life. He has large business interests to supervise which have not been getting his time and attention. Probably no man has made bigger sacrifices to serve the government.

Mr. Weeks is close to the new president, of course, as they were associated in Massachusetts politics and would be so in any cabinet post. But he originally would have preferred the secretaryship of the treasury when Mr. Harding selected him for secretary of war. Mr. Weeks was a banker before he went into politics. There is also the possibility that Mr. Weeks might aspire to the leadership of the senate if he returned to that body. There is no certainty that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will care to remain as Republican leader. Mr. Underwood relinquished the Democratic leadership because of the strain of the job. Mr. Weeks, if re-elected to the senate, would be recognized in any contest for leadership as eminently desirable.

LEAGUE AND AMBASSADORS SEEK ROME-ATHENS PEACE

General—A telegram from Viscount Ishii, president of the council of the league of nations, to the council of ambassadors saying the council shared with the ambassadors an anxiety to see the Greco-Italian difficulty settled soon was construed to indicate a policy of watchful waiting on the part of the league.

BURIAL OF DEAD IN JAPAN WILL REQUIRE WEEKS

Removal Of Debris Reveals Horrors Of Nippon's Greatest Calamity

Tokio—Probably three fourths of the houses in Tokio are uninhabitable for, while but half of the capital was destroyed the other half was damaged severely.

The thousands who are sleeping out no doubt prefer this, since earthquakes continue, some rather sharp. Sleep for the nerve-stricken people is next to impossible. Arrivals from the Hakone mountains describe the remarkable effect of the quakes there where mountains toppled, filling up valleys and burying alive many hundreds of persons.

In Tokio some frightful scenes are being disclosed as the debris is cleared away. Charred bodies are found in groups where the people thought they would be safe from falling tiles—ordinarily the greatest menace to pedestrians in Japanese earthquakes.

It will take weeks to dispose of the dead in Tokio, Yokohama and in the surrounding villages that suffered equally with the larger cities.

The Kawasaki manufacturing district was wiped out. It included many concerns, in which American capital is invested.

Despite the privations, horrors and damage suffered in Tokio, life here is returning to normal. Rickshaws have appeared. Street cars, however, on which the poor depend remain on the tracks where they came to a standstill with the first tremendous earthquake shock Sept. 1. They are inhabited now by refugees, chiefly those ill.

Foreigners have had food enough, despite the general shortage.

The newspapers have begun issuing "fly sheets," their editors apparently as far at sea regarding the extent and details of the catastrophe as the population.

STRANDQUIST BANK CLOSED BECAUSE OF LACK OF FUNDS

St. Paul—The Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Strandquist, Marshall, Minn., was closed Tuesday. A. Strandquist, state superintendent of banks announced, because of depleted reserves.

J. J. Ostad is president. The bank has a capital stock of $20,000 and deposits totaling $125,000.

Need More For Relief

Gifts from one to fifty dollars have been coming in each day since the Japanese Relief fund was started, so that the total now is $54,520. The American Red Cross still lacks $300,000 of the amount needed to save the lives of the thousands of homeless in the islands of the Orient, so the giving ought to continue liberally. Quick gifts mean quick relief and the saving of lives.

Appleton was not assigned any definite quota, but judging from the goals set by other cities several hundred dollars more ought to be forthcoming. The donations thus far indicate this city is heading true to its reputation as a city of generous hearts.

Contributions should be left at the chamber of commerce or Post-Crescent offices, and checks made payable to the Japanese Relief Fund.

Blaine Names Fred Bachman Regent Of 'U'

Governor Makes Three Appointments Giving Progressives Majority

Fred Bachman, city treasurer of Appleton, labor leader and a prominent worker in the Progressive Republican faction of Outagamie county, has been appointed by Gov. J. J. Blaine as a member of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin.

The appointment was announced by the governor Tuesday, together with the appointment of two other members. Two of the appointments were in conformity with a provision of the new Severson law increasing the size of the board to give farmer-labor representation.

As a result of these appointments, the LaFollette Progressives will for the first time get a majority of members on the directing board of the state university.

NAMES TWO MORE
The other appointees are Senator E. Cushman of the Ninth congressional district, who is named to represent the farmers of the state, and John C. Schmidtman, Manitowish manufacturing, who was appointed as a representative of labor.

Mr. Bachman has made no announcement as yet as to his intention, and was not prepared to state whether he would accept or decline. His appointment was recommended to the governor by his friends. It was through the efforts of Mr. Bachman and the Appleton Trades and Labor council, as well as of the Outagamie County Labor and Progressive league, of which organizations he is president, that Andrew McDonald, Kaukauna locomotive engineer was appointed a member of the state railroad rate commission some time ago. Mr. Bachman is also chairman of the county Republican committee.

SIX YEAR TERM
His appointment to the board of regents if accepted, will be for a term of six years. The following announcement accompanied the governor's appointments:

"Senator Cushman is appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Regent Miller, and as representing the farmers."

"Mr. Bachman, who is city treasurer of Appleton, is appointed regent-at-large."

"John C. Schmidtman, of Manitowish, is an alumnus of the university engaged in manufacturing. His appointment is at large."

"These appointments were made in compliance with the law passed by the last legislature, increasing the membership of the board."

The men selected by Gov. Blaine are in each instance progressive Republicans actively engaged in politics. It is said by those in close touch with the situation that several of those appointed as Progressives are not voting as a group on questions of policy.

MAN SHOTS WIFE, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

By Associated Press

Milwaukee—Following unsuccessful attempts to end his own life after taking that of his wife, Cecelia, 50, late Monday afternoon, Joseph Borowski, 55, packing house worker, Cudahy, is held in the Cudahy jail charged with first degree murder.

Borowski fired three shots at his wife from whom he was estranged. All shots found their mark in the woman's head.

Jealousy aroused over a supposed rival and inability to effect a reconciliation with his wife are given by police as the motives for the slaying and the attempted suicide. Mrs. Borowski, also a packing house worker, was entering the home of her children when accused by the husband who, after a quarrel, drew a revolver and fired three times.

30 FIREMEN OVERCOME IN BLAZE ON U. S. FREIGHTER

By Associated Press

Los Angeles—Thirty firemen were overcome in combating a fire in the hold of the freighter American here which caused $250,000 damage to the cargo.

Already the state department of markets has warned against "speculative" coal dealers, who are said to be operating in a number of the larger cities, offering fuel of low quality for sale.

The organization exists in Wisconsin to head off attempts of anthracite dealers to raise prices without justification. Governor Blaine is expected to instruct the state department of markets to use its machinery in an effort to prevent " gouging" by dealers.

STATE ISSUES WARNING AGAINST COAL GOUGERS

Madison—The suggestion of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania that governors of the states prepare to protect the people against "coal gougers" will be received in Wisconsin with active steps to prevent profiteering.

MINE LEADER SUPPORTS PROBE OF COAL FREIGHT

By Associated Press

Philadelphia — President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America sent a letter to President Coolidge supporting the suggestion of Governor Pinchot that the interstate commerce commission investigate anthracite freight rates.

"Miss America" Once More

Miss Mary Katherine Campbell, Columbus, O., chosen as "Miss America" in the 1922 Beauty Pageant at Atlantic City, was awarded the same honor this year. Her selection for the second time came as a great surprise to other contestants.

Klan Forced To Quit Use Of Regalia

By Associated Press

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The "invisible empire" laid aside its invisibility in Oklahoma Tuesday, submitting to the edict of Governor J. C. Wainwright, against masked parades and meetings.

All members of the Ku Klux Klan in the state had orders from the Grand Dragon of the Oklahoma realm that robes and hoods must no longer be worn in public.

The unmasking of the Klan left Governor Wainwright in command of the field in his war on the secret organization to which he attributes floggings and other mob outrages, but it was not without violent protest that state Klan officials decided to bow to his ultimatum.

Grand Dragon N. C. Jewett made it plain that only the governors threat of martial law for communities in which masked demonstrations were held led to the decision to discard robes and hoods in public.

M'BRIDE SAYS DRYS TO KEEP STATE CONTROL

State Superintendent Of Anti-Saloon League Predicts Wets' Defeat

By Associated Press

Fond du Lac—The dries of Wisconsin will continue to have control in the state senate during the next session of the legislature, in a position to prevent repeal of the Severson prohibition enforcement statute, Dr. D. L. McBride, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league predicted in a speech recently delivered here.

The Anti-Saloon league leader declared that the wets of the state have "vainly tried their utmost to chloroform the dry law and to pull its teeth by repeal of the search and seizure act, and then sought to lift the lid from 150 breweries and 5,000 saloons by repealing the Severson law. "But," he said, "The senate sat heavily on the lid."

"Drys will continue to hold the senate," Dr. McBride continued. "The fight is on against any step backward. The Anti-Saloon league is putting on a comprehensive program of education and organization to keep the lid on tight."

"We want a dry Congress, a dry legislature in both branches and a dry governor who will appoint dry officers to enforce the dry law. We want dry sheriffs and district attorneys, of whom all around who respect their oath and will fulfill its obligation."

AVENUE WILL BE LIVELY IF SKY IS CLEAR

Fall Style Opening Will Be Biggest Downtown Event Of Year

Merchants are pleading with the weather man to give them clear skies Wednesday for the Fall Style opening. If the weather is fair it is expected that 10,000 people will invade the downtown section to see the activities that have been planned.

It is not often that College Avenue is the scene of gaiety on a week night; but this will be an opportunity for everybody to go downtown with something to see and do.

The lights will be turned on in the windows at 7:15, showing the beautiful new styles in wearing apparel, footwear and for other purposes. The word contest also will start at that time for those who want to win one of the prizes described elsewhere in this issue.

The automobile parade headed by the 12th Artillery band is to move west from the armory at 7:15 and will march up the avenue and back again to Soldier's square where the automobile show starts at 7:45.

Last of the day's big events will be the street dance on Morrison street between College and Lawrence streets starting at 8:45 with music by the full band.

Everybody in Appleton is asked to be downtown to see the fall opening festivities.

BADGER RAILWAYS WOULD CUT LINES

Madison—Abandonment of part of their lines is sought by two Wisconsin railroads, the state railroad commission was advised Tuesday by the interstate commerce commission.

The Fairchild and Northern Railway company is reported to have applied for authority to abandon its line of railroad extending from Clegg, Wis. in Eau Claire co. to Owen in Clark co., a distance of 67 miles.

The Stanley, Merrill, and Phillips railway company has asked authority to abandon part of its line starting in Stanley and extending to Poller, in Chippewa, Clark and Taylor counties. The distance is 15 miles.

ANOTHER INMATE OF ASYLUM IS AT LARGE

Joining the number of lunatics that have escaped recently from nearby state and county institutions, an inmate of the Outagamie county asylum escaped at about 2:30 Monday morning.

An escaped maniac of the Waupaca asylum was captured by the Appleton police a few days ago at Appleton Junction. The latest fugitive is Peter Hendricks, who is 45 years old and about 4 feet high. He has black hair and blue eyes, and when last seen wore a blue suit, black hat, gray flannel shirt and black shoes.

GROVER DIES OF WOUNDS RECEIVED FROM ROBBER

Minneapolis—Mahlon N. Sidwell, 30, a grocer, shot by a bandit during a struggle at the rear of his store early Monday died in a hospital here Tuesday. Two bullets had entered his abdomen. Police Tuesday had no clue to identify the assailant.

LEGION GIVES TO JAPANESE RELIEF

Oney Johnston post of the American legion voted at its meeting Monday evening to give a sum of money to the Japanese relief fund. The committee on the Fourth of July celebration reported a financial loss of about $400. Other reports were made by the delegates who attended the legion convention at Superior and plans were made to put on an extension member ship campaign.

MUSSOLINI TO ANNEX ISLAND WITHIN WEEK

Rome Intends To Settle Question With Jugo-Slavia In Direct Negotiation

By Associated Press

Rome—Best informed opinion here is that Italy will refuse any mediation of the settlement of the Fiume question with Jugo-Slavia as proposed by the latter. Italy, it is declared, intends to settle directly with Jugo-Slavia, in line with the demands made for a settlement, setting Sept. 15, as the date for a reply, even employing forceful means. If necessary to end what the regards as an intolerable situation imperiling peace.

USE FORCE IF NECESSARY

Serbia Said To Be Aware Of Italy's Purpose, And Offers No Protest

By Associated Press

Paris—It is understood from information gathered in reliable sources that Premier Mussolini will proclaim the annexation of Fiume to Italy within a week, probably about Sept. 15. The government of Jugo-Slavia is represented as being aware of Mussolini's intention, and as intending to make no serious protest provided Porto Barro and Sussak, adjacent, are not directly affected.

JUGO-SLAVIA DOES NOT OBJECT

Paris—It is understood from information gathered in reliable sources that Premier Mussolini will proclaim the annexation of Fiume to Italy within a week, probably about Sept. 15. The government of Jugo-Slavia is represented as being aware of Mussolini's intention, and as intending to make no serious protest provided Porto Barro and Sussak, adjacent, are not directly affected.

BLAINE VETO OF GAS TAX DISAPPROVED

Members Of Highway Commission Tell Executive Of General Opposition

By Associated Press

Madison—The veto by Governor Blaine of the gasoline tax bill passed by the legislature, resulting in a hampered highway program for the next two years, has met with widespread disapproval in many sections of the state. Assemblyman Richard Kamke of Merrill and Fred A. Frederich, Manitowish, reported to Frank Kuehl, the governor's secretary.

These two assemblymen, members of the special legislative highway committee named by Governor Blaine to lay out $500,000 additional miles of state trunk highway, informed the executive, through his secretary, that they were encountering strong opposition to his attack on the gasoline tax.

The general sentiment expressed at hearings held in most of the counties of Northern Wisconsin, was said by the legislators to favor a tax on gasoline as the most equitable way to raise highway funds. Farmers particularly were reported to have favored the tax as a means of exacting some revenue from motorists who now use roads of the state without expense to themselves.

LOST IN SWAMP 5 DAYS, MAN INSANE WHEN FOUND

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—Joe Prevost, 45 years old, is in the hospital here in a serious condition as a result of exposure in dense swamps for five days and nights. Prevost has been pronounced temporarily insane. He left his automobile on the Dixie highway last Tuesday and disappeared into a dense woods along the road. He says that he thought he was being followed by a man who intended to rob and kill him. Prevost was headed for Pontiac, where he intended to work. He has a wife and child living near here.

Wrecked Mail Liner Guarded By Survivors

By Associated Press

Santa Barbara, Calif.—The Pacific Mail liner Cuba is stranded on a reef near Point Bonita on the westerly edge of San Miguel Isle.

Captain Holland and four members of the crew are on the island and are living in an abandoned fisherman's hut while stationing a guard over the wreck. All of the $2,000,000 in silver bullion the vessel carried has been taken from the bulkhead and enroute to San Francisco on a United States destroyer. The $500,000 cargo of coffee is lost.

The Cuba is entirely out of water on the reef and no hope of salvaging her is entertained according to the party which located her Tuesday.

SEVEN AMERICANS DEAD IN JAP QUAKE

By Associated Press

Washington—The American consul at Kobe Tuesday cabled the following list of Americans who have been reported killed in the Japanese disaster: Miss Doris Rabbitt, Mrs. Joseph Cochran, Mrs. Brunell, F. L. Elliot, Mr. Fifth, Miss Jean Grattan, Mrs. L. H. Jenks.

HOLMES RETURNED BY CONFERENCE AS FIRST M. E. PASTOR

Few Changes Made In County
By State Conference
At Fond du Lac

Dr. J. A. Holmes has been returned as pastor of the First Methodist church here, according to appointments announced Monday afternoon at the annual Wisconsin conference of the Methodist denomination at Fond du Lac by Bishop Charles Bayard Mitchell.

The Rev. W. P. Hulén again is assigned to the Kaukauna church and the Rev. G. W. Lester to the Black Creek and Seymour parishes. The Rev. W. L. Snider will take the Bear Creek church and the Rev. T. Goldsmith goes to Medina and Hortonville.

A change has been made at New London, with the assigning of that pastor, the Rev. C. E. Olson to Peshigo and Harmony. The New London minister will be the Rev. V. W. Bell, who also has the Newton church. The Rev. G. A. Tennant will take charge of the mission at Oneida.

The bishop's special appointments will return the Rev. F. C. Brayton of Appleton as field agent for Wisconsin Children's Home society; Samuel Cookson as agent for Lawrence college; Dr. W. S. Naylor as professor at Lawrence; the Rev. N. A. Newing as field secretary and chaplain of Wisconsin Deaconess hospital at Green Bay; Dr. Samuel Plantz as president of Lawrence college, and Dr. A. A. Trever as professor at Lawrence.

Full appointments to Appleton district are as follows:

District sup. J. H. Tippet; Abrams, Brookside and Sampson, U. C. Eniger; Algoma, Thomas Austin; Angelica, R. Shaw; Antigo circuit, O. D. Cannon; Appleton, J. A. Holmes; Bear Creek, W. L. Soper; Green Bay, First church, G. E. MacInnis; Green Bay, St. Paul church, T. D. Williams; Hortonville and Medina, T. Goldsmith; Hortonville and Medina, T. Goldsmith.

Wanted Tire More Than Hope Chest Of Girl

A tire was more valuable Saturday night to some automobile owner than a filled hope chest being moved from Kaukauna to Green Bay by Walter Busch of Green Bay. The hope chest and other belongings were the property of the future bride of Mr. Busch and were being taken by him to their future home in Green Bay. After arriving at his destination Mr. Busch parked the truck and went into a restaurant for a lunch. When he came out the truck was gone.

Thinking some of his friends were playing a joke on him he gave the matter little thought until Sunday morning when an acquaintance called to inquire why the truck had been left in his backyard. Mr. Busch informed him the car had been stolen.

Upon investigation it was discovered the cedar chest and personal belongings had not been molested but a spare tire had been stolen. It is believed the thief drove the truck into the darkness in the backyard to remove the tire without attracting attention.

"I" Board To Meet

The board of directors of the T. M. C. A. and the employed staff will have a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 1:30 Thursday afternoon. Preliminary plans for the membership campaign Sept. 24 to 27 will be presented and discussed.

EMME'S PAGEANT TEACHES NEED OF CHURCH EDUCATION

Production Which Swayed State Conference Will Be Repeated Here

Prof. E. E. Emme, in his new capacity as conference superintendent of religious education of the Methodist church, scored a new degree of popularity for weekday religious education at the annual state conference at Fond du Lac in session for the last week.

Prof. Emme prepared a pageant, "Conservation versus Reformation," and presented it Sunday night at the conference, with 39 Fond du Lac people in the cast. Four-hundred people were turned away because the church was so crowded. It was repeated Monday night to a full house.

Not less than 50 cities and towns immediately clamored for a showing of the pageant in home churches, because it was so effective in its religious education appeal. Prof. Emme has not written the pageant for use but will endeavor to fulfill the requests.

Appleton, Prof. Emme's home city, will be the first to witness the production. He is arranging to show it here at the Methodist church Sunday night, bringing the Fond du Lac cast here for that purpose. Further announcement will be made later.

Auto Damaged

A car belonging to Kirby White of Detroit, formerly of Appleton, was damaged in a collision at Manitowish with a car belonging to John Somersperger of Sheboygan. Somersperger was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and paid a fine of $50 and costs, a total of $85.25.

MERCHANTS' ANNOUNCEMENT

Limited Seating Capacity—No Admission After 1500 Tickets Are Sold

The Appleton Fashion Pageant and Style Revue PACKED LAWRENCE CHAPEL IN A BLIZZARD last March. This Fall—with excellent weather and extensive advertising in surrounding cities—the attendance is expected to break the tremendous record set in March.

The program lasts two hours and a half—a long production. To fully enjoy so extended a presentation, everyone in the audience must be seated comfortably. To make this possible, the doors of the Chapel will be closed after fifteen hundred tickets are sold.

The advance sale of tickets at Belling's Drug Store has already taken care of a large number of tickets. All who wish to attend the opening performance tomorrow night are urged to purchase tickets during the day.

HARD COAL PRICE NOT EXCESSIVE AS CITY IS NEAR DOCK

Anthracite Costs And Profits
Are Revealed In U.S.
Commission Report

In being close to the lake ports, Appleton has an advantage over deep inland cities in the item of freight rates on hard coal. It is clear from a table of anthracite costs and freight rates prepared by the United States coal commission.

In consequence, Appleton consumers are paying from a few cents to several dollars less on a ton of stove anthracite than the inhabitants of cities in the interior of the state. The table also proves that whereas Appleton is enjoying lower freight rates than the inland cities, it is paying much higher rates than Green Bay and other port cities that have deep harbors and can receive large vessels. For instance, Green Bay's rate is 30 cents, Milwaukee's rate 40 cents, Superior's rate 40 cents, while Appleton's rate from the dock is $1.34. The cost of stove anthracite F. O. B. docks to dealers was $12.80 a ton, according to the last shipment received by the dealers prior to May 15, 1923. Adding the freight rate of $1.34, the cost of that class of coal F. O. B. dealers' yard is $14.14, the coal commission says.

SOME SHIRINKAGE
"In using this cost-to-dealer information," the report says, "allowance must be made on the one hand for the dealer's losses by degradation and his handling cost items and a fair margin of profit. Anthracite is sold at the mines on the basis of the gross ton (2,240 lbs.) but in the northwest prices are generally quoted on a net ton (2,000 lbs.)."

The cost-to-dealer price of $14.14 in Appleton is 64 cents more than that in Milwaukee, but is considerably less than in other Wisconsin cities. For example, for instance, price $16.50, Beaver Dam $16.95, Berlin $20.15, Janesville $18.00, South Madison $14.92, LaCrosse $15.50, Monroe $16.25, Platteville $15.71 and Rhinelander $16.25.

Degradation, which includes loss through screening and loss in weight through breaking down of coal, is an uncertain item. Some dealers figure this loss at about 30 cents a ton. Coal may be 95 per cent lump and after 60 days only about 60 per cent lump.

PROFIT 3 PER CENT
Handling cost is computed by dealers at from 10 to 25 per cent, and the margin of profit expected by the dealers is about 2 to 3 per cent. Included in the handling cost is labor, equipment, bad accounts, etc. For every dollar's worth of coal sold, 50 cents is for the purchase, 20 cents for the cost of doing business and 2 or 3 cents net profit. It was declared. On that basis a ton of anthracite brought by the dealer at $14.14 should be placed on the market for $15.30. It was held, whereas dealers are now selling the same coal at $17.50 a net ton.

Just as the butcher, as was explained at a recent farmer-business conference, is compelled to sell the regular cuts at a higher price in order to balance the margin on the cheaper cuts, so the dealer is confronted with the difficulty in disposing of certain grades of coal. If a dealer orders 700 tons of anthracite, the mine operators require the dealer to take a certain proportion of buckwheat, egg and pea coal along with the stove and nut coal. Buckwheat coal is harder to dispose of and for that reason is sold at a lesser margin of profit. This margin must be regained in the grade of coal more in demand.

TOO MANY DEALERS
The difference of $3.36 between the cost price of $14.14 and the selling price of $17.50 could be still more reduced, were it not for excessive competition, was the statement of one dealer. The fact that there are twice as many retailers than are necessary adds to the handling cost. If this company's business were doubled, it could install labor saving equipment that would allow the company to handle the greater volume at scarcely more than the present cost of handling.

Although dealers are carrying a fairly good stock of anthracite, no shipments are expected during this month. Even though the anthracite strike is settled, it may be a week or two before the operators will begin shipping to the west. After Nov. 1 there would remain only 15 days of navigation.

Of the 80,000,000 tons of anthracite, Wisconsin consumes probably less than 2 per cent. The greatest proportion, or about 50 per cent goes to Pennsylvania. New York and New Jersey; about 16 per cent goes to the New England states; 2 per cent to the southern states; 4 per cent goes to Canada and about 7 per cent to the north central states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, and Wisconsin. No movement of hard coal to the middle west is therefore to be expected until the east has been somewhat supplied, it was said.

Not Enough Houses Yet To Bring Rent Prices To Lower Level Here

Influx Of New Families Sufficient
To Take Up Houses
Made Vacant By Large Number
Who Build Own Homes

The building boom of the last two years in Appleton may be a source of gratification, but if it has encouraged any of the "cliff-dwellers" to hope for a decrease in rent, they are bound to be disappointed.

That is the sentiment of several real estate dealers who were interviewed. The price of rent is governed by the law of supply and demand and by prosperity and depression. Because of the acute housing shortage in Appleton, rent is slightly higher than in neighboring cities.

The 225 new homes built in the year 1922 and the same number of houses that will be completed this year are not sufficient to meet the demand for housing. It is true that nearly every new house built makes another vacant, unless the builders come from outside the city, or are newly married couples, but for every new house that becomes vacant, there are still enough strangers migrating to Appleton to claim them.

25 FAMILIES MONTHLY
A west end real estate dealer estimated that in the summer months alone there are at least 25 new families a month. Some of these families buy their own homes, others build new homes and still others rent homes.

The local building and loan association, the contractors and individuals will therefore build a good many more homes before there is oversupply of houses in Appleton. And if that day comes rent will naturally come down and few persons will care to build. This condition will again bring about house shortage, for this, like hard times, travels in cycles.

With plenty of employment in Appleton, wages at a fair level and with no real evidence of hard times, there is very little likelihood for a decrease in house rent very soon. On the contrary, the trend has been slightly in the opposite direction, according to owners of houses for rent. The housing situation may not be so critical as it was two years ago, but there is still the usual scramble for every newly advertised home for rent. Now that temporary residents have had the benefit of the summer gardens, the moving season is about to begin. Moving is most active in spring and fall.

LOCATION IS FACTOR
The desirability of locations is as flexible as in the case of home builders. Residents who desire to rent homes at moderate price seek locations on the south side of the river or in the outskirts of the city. Others are willing to pay a little more rent for the privilege of living very close to their place of business or occupation or the business district. Mothers often desire locations near a school or a church of their denomination. Houses that are advertised in the First and Second wards rent most rapidly, according to one real estate man.

The combined shortage of houses has induced many who have determined to make Appleton their permanent home to build their own homes. One man who a few years ago built a home declared that no one could induce him ever to rent a house again. Owning one's home is cheaper not particularly from the viewpoint of finance, but as a guarantee for peace of mind.

This resident built a home for $5,000. The upkeep he calculated at about $55, distributed as follows: Tax $100, interest lost $300, insurance $6, repairs, painting, etc., $100, depreciation $150. This amounted to about $54.60 a month. He said he could rent a house like it for $45, but the difference of $9.60 a month was not too great for the freedom, security, pleasure and pride in one's own home, he said.

LET'S PROTECT OUR CITIZENS

In the report of the police and fire commission made public on Saturday covering the recent hearing of Chief Prim considerable attention is given by the commission to the use of the city police car outside the city limits of Appleton without the consent of the commission or some other city authority. What constitutes an emergency justifying its use seems to be the point at issue. We agree with the commission that the police department is not justified in sending the police car into the country to look for a lost dog, but we do not agree that holdups of our citizens happening within a few rods of the city limits should be permitted to pass unheeded.

Such a happening as occurred on the Lake road a few nights ago when one of Appleton's citizens was held up at the point of a revolver is, we believe, an emergency to which the city police department should be authorized to respond without first getting the consent of the mayor or some other authority. This holdup was apparently the work of professional highwaymen. The victim was a resident of Appleton. It occurred close to the city limits of Appleton. That the city police department could not respond was, we believe, entirely wrong.

Desperadoes were at large and the peace of the community demanded that they be apprehended if possible. The Appleton police department in this instance was equipped to give such aid much better and quicker than the sheriff's office of the county in which the holdup took place, as it occurred on a county line highway 38 miles from the sheriff's office of one county and 20 miles from the other. Had some one been shot and killed by these highwaymen then we take it from the report of the police and fire commission that "common decency" would require that the officials respond. We believe it to be more important to capture criminals before desperate acts have been committed than waiting for such an emergency, and we do not believe that it should be necessary to get the mayor or some one else out of bed in the middle of the night to authorize an attempt at such a capture.

Public safety requires that desperate characters in our community be apprehended and it seems to us imperative that local police officers be made available in such cases, even though the police car may have to go out of town. Common sense, we believe, would indicate this to be the proper procedure. If city authorities have the confidence in our police chief as was indicated in the report of the commission then, we believe, that judgment and authority in such matters should be vested in that official whose training and experience should enable him to quickly sense the need in any emergency.

HELP FOR THE JAPANESE

We never can tell at what hour or to what extent misfortune may overtake us. It often comes out of a clear sky. We have no warning of its approach. Sympathy and helpfulness are two human characteristics without which life would be robbed of the chief things that enrich it. Whether it be an individual or a community or a nation which is in distress, the first instinct of others is to render assistance. Not many years ago San Francisco, one of the most prosperous and care-free cities in America, was devastated by earthquake. An hour before the blow struck it never dreamed that it could be reduced to a state of complete helplessness and desolation. San Francisco was compelled to appeal to the rest of the country for help, and help was rushed to it from all quarters. Without that help thousands more would have perished. The response to San Francisco's appeal was a wonderful demonstration of the closeness with which mankind is drawn together in times of crisis.

Now it is Japan—Tokio and Yokohama—which is so struck down that it must have help. The conditions following the earthquake are beyond description. Between 200,000 and 300,000 are dead. An equal number are injured. It is estimated 2,500,000 are homeless. Tens of thousands face death from starvation or pestilence. So great is the destruction that the immediate power of recuperation and self-help are gone. The people are helpless for the hour, just as San Francisco was helpless. It is immediate assistance immediate aid, in the form of money that can provide on a large scale food, clothing, shelter and sanitation, that must be had.

It is up to America to extend its hand once more across the seas to its stricken brethren. America would be disturbed in its own conscience and before the world if it did not do this. America means Wisconsin and Appleton. The response must come down to the individual. The fund for Japan is to be raised by the American Red Cross. There being no chapter of the Red Cross in Appleton the chamber of commerce and Post-Crescent have jointly undertaken this work. Appleton and Outagamie county citizens have done splendidly to date, but much more is needed if we are to keep our place in the first ranks of charitable communities. There is to be no solicitation of business establishments or individuals. The money must be contributed voluntarily. Donations may be addressed to the chamber of commerce or the Post-Crescent. A committee of well-known persons is in charge of the funds. The names of contributors will be published. This is a small test of our christianity and our charity, but it is a test. We hope we shall meet it as we would expect others to come to our assistance if we should suffer some overwhelming public calamity.

In subscribing to this fund you're giving for the relief of suffering humanity—remember that—you're contributing to a cause that should call for the most prompt support from a generous and thoughtful heart, one considerate of the welfare of others, regardless of race or creed, in their hour of tribulation and need.

WORLD COURT AND POLICE FORCE

Most of us doubtless would be impressed with the idea that the League of Nations or the world court could not be maintained except by the employment of force. On the contrary, the only force which can preserve either as a useful institution is the moral force of conviction. While it would take a standing police force to give weight to these establishments, this force, too, would be a fact as a result of conviction.

Italy's foolhardy action in attacking Greece weakens sentiment which has been favorable to both. Mussolini has travestied the purpose and dignity of these judicial bodies. If Italy can defy the League and the great nations, any strong nation could do the same.

It took a very long time to organize law and order and make them effective. Gain after gain was achieved before society decided that peaceful measures were better than forceful measures.

International institutions of adjudication will have to be developed by experience. At last they will be regarded, as ordinary courts are, as the most satisfactory resorts for settlements of differences. Then there may be an international police force to carry out the will of the majority of the world's citizenship.

HOT FOOT

Considering how greatly most of us abuse our feet with freak shoes it is really remarkable how few of us suffer seriously with foot troubles.

Burning of the feet is a common complaint. It proves a harassing affliction of many elderly persons, keeping them awake nights. The trouble in such cases is attributable to faulty circulation. Many sufferers have found great relief in having their feet anointed freely with petroleum jelly, wrapped in a layer of cotton batting and bandaged for the night.

A peculiar disturbance of the circulation known as erythromelalgia (or literally big redache) most frequently affects one, sometimes both of the feet. This burning ache is aggravated when the feet hang down or by warm or hot baths or applications, and relieved by cold or by elevation of the feet above the level of the body. The name comes from the peculiar pink or purplish flush of the region affected. Sometimes the patch affected is limited to the ball of the great toe, which looks pink or red; the more or less constant aching or burning with exacerbations may lead to the mistaken notion of "gout." Indeed, most cases of what purports to be "gout" are diagnostic errors, even though grandfather had it too.

A peculiar condition seen in Russian, Polish and Roumanian Jews in America is called thrombo angitis obliterans (clotting in the artery, supplying the effected parts); redness of the foot is noticeable when the foot hangs down.

Considerable burning of the feet occurs in some drosia (malodorous sweating) of the feet. Here the proper treatment of the sweating will bring relief to the burning which is necessary, perhaps at intervals of a few weeks. This solution is commonly used to prevent excessive or foul sweating in the armpits, but an application each alternate day for three times is sufficient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Boys Versus Girls

"A mother" writes an indignant protest against my habit of comparing boys with girls to the disadvantage of the girl babies. Well, for all of that, girl babies are much better than boy babies in every respect, when boys are not to be had, though of course a fellow can't help feeling a little disappointed when the order comes back marked: "We are temporarily out of boys but we are sending a girl, hoping you will find the goods satisfactory." "A mother" says that as soon as you get a boy raised, he up and marries. Why not? What's the matter with the country right now? Every boy who isn't married at 25 ought to pay a heavy bachelor tax. I've known a lot of girls who, as soon as they were raised, up and married, and most of them made a big success of it.

A teacher has a way of punishing pupils 7 or 8 years old by forcing them to walk in a circle carrying a heavy dictionary for from half an hour to an hour at a time for very trivial offenses, such as whispering. Is not such severe exertion likely to cause injury to the spine of such young children?—Mrs. A. C. C.

Answer—Yes, the carrying of a heavy book like a dictionary is likely to cause curvature of the spine. Teachers who consider whispering a crime should be pensioned.

Removing Moles

What is the best method of removing moles? Is it dangerous?—W. J. M.

Answer—Various methods are used, according to the requirements of the case, electrolysis, fulguration (the high frequency spark), freezing with carbon dioxide, radium, etc. Any of these methods would be safe in the hands of a physician, not otherwise.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Tuesday, September 18, 1898
John Maurer was in Oshkosh on business. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Falk. F. E. Worden of Oshkosh called on relatives here. Postoffice inspector Ralph Bird of Milwaukee visited the local postoffice.

The Misses Anita and Kittie Gochbauer returned from a three weeks visit to Evanston. Edward Lohman left for Chicago, where he accepted a position as traveling salesman for a well known company.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Irving took their departure for Chicago, where they were to visit friends for a month.

Several more boys of the Second regiment arrived at Fort Monroe from Porto Rico Monday. They were W. Abbott, A. E. Culp, E. P. Johnson, J. E. Kelsey and Robert Pasch of Appleton.

The new $7,000 Lutheran church in the town of Ellington was to be dedicated the following Sunday. The Northwestern Railway company was to run an excursion train to Milwaukee the following Sunday. The fare was to be $1.75 for the round trip.

Anton Christl, an old resident of the town of Horton, died the previous Saturday.

A. E. Weltschorn leased the residence at the corner of College and Mead streets and had already taken possession.

The firemen at the new No. 3 engine house were ready at any time to respond to an alarm of fire.

As the newspaper men lined up in Senior Firpo's boudoir the other day, the Wild Bull's Interpreter asked: "Now which one of you guys called the fighter a big cheese?" To Barney the supreme question is not who called the fighter a big cheese, but who called the big cheese a fighter.

A Robert Chambers Episode She stole softly up to him and laid her hand caressingly upon his head, ran her fingers through his silk dark brown locks, and then gently placed a hand on each of his soft smooth cheeks. She raised her face up to him showing her soft carmine lips and looked knowingly at him from her deep blue eyes. She spoke not a word, neither did he; the only movement perceptible on his part was a slight jerk of the head as she slipped the bit into his mouth.

FIREWORKS AND FIREWATER

The Marinette Eagle-Star contributes a bit which sounds as though the reporter had been reading altogether too many circus advertisements, consuming too much liquor and walking coatless in the rain, and the combined effects of these producing the following: "In a frenzy of roaring and rumbling, angry magnificence, Jupiter Pluvius swooped down upon Marinette early this morning and let loose the unbridled wrath of the God of storms, bringing an elemental electrical display not equaled here so far this year."

Some men are like pencils. They never make their mark until they are pushed.

Lunatics have been breaking loose from the Northern hospital near Oshkosh quite frequently. We understand that some of them are still at large, and that pursuit is almost impossible. We don't blame the authorities for how are you to tell the crazy folks from people who go around singing that song about the bananas, or its running mate—Barney Google?

Bali Isle Near Java Is Land Of Strange Gods

(Dale Collins, In The Wide World Magazine.)

Tourists come to Java. Commerce is busy there. But near at hand Bali sleeps unchanged and unchanging in her summer seas—surely the fairest and most fascinating isle in all the world.

In centuries long past, when Mohammedanism swept over the Malay archipelago, Bali remained true to the old gogling gods of the Hindu mythology. So is it today. Bali does not bow to these new gods of progress and bustle. She dreams on as she was in the beginning, her rice-fields golden in the sunshine, her twin volcanoes puffing at their giant pipes. Vishnu and all his brothers and sisters still fling about their many arms and legs, spirits lurk in the shadows of every kampong, men wear the kris and wager on cock-fights and miracles may still be seen.

Bali is the fortunate isle and fortunate is the traveler who has been charmed by her beauties and by the grace and picturesqueness of her people.

The island has 1,000,000 inhabitants, of whom only 300 are white, the majority of these being Dutch, as it is a Dutch possession. There must be nearly as many gods as there are people. Along every road are temples, clear, gray crumbling places where slim maidens in bright sarongs burn little offerings of rice to the high gods.

You must not laugh at these odd-looking deities, for dignified Balinese gentlemen will tell you that they are very powerful. When the great volcano Batoer grew vexed and in place of smoke and rumblings spat out rivers of red-hot lava, a prosperous little village was threatened by the sweeping torrent of death.

Sacrifice was made in the crumbling temple at the village gates and behold! when the advancing stream reached the temple it stopped. No more lava came, and the village was saved.

"The gods were kind," says the Balinese gentlemen and bow their heads a little. And this mark you, is no tale of olden days but a happening of less than 40 years ago.

Nor has the day of strange things fled.

This very year, while I sat in a tiny rathouse, all the dogs in the kampong (village) commenced to howl on one note of terror. It was puzzling, but Bangoes Ktoot, my Balinese boy, explained it all quite simply. Out there in the kampong a spirit was prowling. It had the body of a dog, the head of a monkey, and eyes like the lights of a ship. I offered Ktoot a large sum—a whole gulden, which is nearly 50 cents—if he would go out into the dark and bring in this strange creature for me. But the golden face of Ktoot blanched at the very suggestion and his teeth chattered.

This same Ktoot, who knew much of the strangeness of this island of his, took me to the queer temple situated here called Goa-Lowa. It was the usual wall of strange divinites but behind it was a dark and ominous cave. The ear was puzzled by strange chirpings, and presently Ktoot flung a stone into the gloom. From the roof flew bats by the millions, bats too numerous for any census. The air grew solid with them.

Q. Is there a national engineering museum? L. I. Y.

A. Engineering societies in conjunction with the Smithsonian Institution have projected the establishment of a national museum of engineering and industry, with headquarters in Washington and branches in various sections of the country. An exhibit will be held in New York this fall and winter to arouse interest in the project.

Q. How many factories are engaged in making cigars and cigarettes? M. W. W.

A. The census of 1921 shows 4,148 establishments engaged in their production. The value of such products for the year was $808,748,565.

Q. What is the plural of mosquito? M. P. F.

A. When referring to the insect, the plural is mosquitoes, but when applied to the Indians of the Mosquito Coast, Central America, the word is capitalized and the plural is Mosquitoes.

Q. When is the oldest golf club in the world? F. J. H.

A. The Royal Blackheath Golf Club of London is the oldest. Records date back to 1578 and tradition carries the club back to the reign of James I, 1603-1625. The Old Royal Blackheath course has been closed lately, since it was no longer possible to keep it in playable condition. It was crossed and recrossed by roads and railways and surrounded by buildings. The course consisted of seven holes, a match consisting of three rounds of 21 holes.

Q. What kind of tree produces cork? A. M. J.

A. This material is the bark of the cork oak (Quercus suber). All bark is partially made up of cork, but in cork oak this tissue attains unusual thickness. Cork is composed of walls of dead cells filled with air, rendering it very light, the specific gravity being only 0.24. It is elastic, tough and impermeable which renders it useful for stoppers for bottles, floats for nets and life preservers.

Q. Which is the largest art school in the United States? J. T.

A. The Chicago Art Institute stands first in size. Last year the attendance in the various departments was 3,343.

Q. Was Shakespeare rich? J. R. M.

A. Shakespeare became very prosperous, as did two other actors—managers of Elizabethan times—Henslowe and Alleyn.

HIS FIRST EFFORT

Cleveland, O. — When an author of wide repute, plus a large publishing house, makes a sale of 300,000 copies of one book, the world considers a literary triumph has been scored.

But this is about an humble "buck private" with only a grammar school education and no publishing firm's publicity men to aid him who not only wrote a book but alone put over a sale past the 300,000 mark and is still going strong. L. C. (Buck Private) McCollum, a member of the famous "Lost Battalion," has done this, despite general belief that the public has lost interest in the war.

"The urge to write used to come over me after I got to France," says McCollum. "I smothered it down to degenerate parodies for army theatricals. After we got back, though, there seemed to be so much misunderstanding regarding the war that I couldn't put people right—and I wrote my rhymes with a view to correcting the home-folks' misconceptions. My 'History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion' would never get by a literary critic as gems of poetry or English composition—but the public seems to like them, and the sale continues steadily."

Teams Out To Enrol For Club

Recreation Department Organization Will Make Canvass Of Young Women

Teams of the recreation department of Appleton Women's club are out scouting for new members to take advantage of the added facilities of the club since it has moved into the new clubhouse and recreation building. The drive for department membership started off on Monday evening with a "pep" meeting in the Playhouse for the teams.

The ukelele club will make trips at noon into the various manufacturing places where a member of the team which is working to get members in mills will give out registration cards. The possibility of having noon lunches at the clubhouse, the advance of host rooms, meeting rooms, committee rooms and the value of clubs and classes will be used as talking points in the campaign. The prospective members will be told of the mixers and parties which are being planned, the first of which will be a housewarming on Sept. 20. The date has been advanced a day because of a conflicting entertainment.

The teams which have been selected include: Nona Gerlach, chairman, Esther Ingenthron, Edna Hoh, Mrs. Esther Madisen, Marie Bartle, Adolphe Schueller and Marie Ziegenhagen; Lynda Hummel, chairman, Alma Krueger, Edna Storm, Agnes Bauer, Edna Schultz, Ruth Johnson, Irene Almond, Mrs. A. ## Announcement

I take pleasure in announcing to you the opening season 1923-24 of my class in voice culture.

If you are contemplating the study of voice the coming year, it will pay you to enroll now. I have studied with Dean Harper, Dean Evans of Lawrence Conservatory, coaching with Dean Evans for more than four years; also George Andrews, Mabel Finny of Chicago, Clara Hunt Howard of the Eau Claire School of Music, and others.

It pays to study with instructors who have not only fine schooling in their particular art, but who have had much public experience as well, instructors who can fit pupils for a life work as thoroughly as can any to be found in our big city conservatories.

Pupils may come here and receive a practical schooling in platform deportment which will be of inestimable value to them throughout life.

Voices tested and advice given to all interested.

BRIDGE WORKMAN HURT WHEN EMBANKMENT CAVES

Carl Klundt, 24, 628 Lincoln-st., who is unmarried and an employee of the Wausau Iron works, builders of the Cherry-st bridge, was injured at about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning by a slipping embankment. While working on the south end of the proposed bridge, the embankment caved in upon him. He was conveyed at once by fellow workmen to St. Elizabeth hospital where an examination revealed that his hips were injured. The injuries, however, are not serious.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. HALL, 639 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved these symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

MEET TO DISCUSS HOSPITAL PLEDGES

Plans for collecting the overdue pledges on St. Elizabeth hospital will be made at Conway hotel on Tuesday evening when 30 business men meet to talk over the situation. Many of the pledges which Appleton citizens agreed to pay toward the new hospital have not been paid in full and the Franciscan sisters are in great need of the money in order that they may meet their obligations to their contractors.

A great deal of the money pledged was collected through Major A. J. McKay, who was treasurer of the fund. The matter is now being taken care of by John Conway and the Franciscan sisters. Any one wishing to pay his pledge without solicitation at this time may send it either to Mr. Conway or directly to the hospital.

Nurse Injured
Mrs. E. Hagen, nurse at Riverview sanatorium, fractured her right shoulder and left arm on a fall and is now at St. Elizabeth hospital.

300 WORSHIPPERS FROM KIMBERLY GO TO FAMOUS SHRINE

Holy Name Parishioners Hear Historic Tale Of Robinsonville Apparition

Kimberly—Three hundred people of the village of Kimberly, members of Holy Name congregation, made the pilgrimage to the chapel of Robinsonville, Sunday. Seventy-three automobiles were counted in the procession accompanied by the band.

Sister Pauline, relating the history of the famous shrine, to the visitors after arrival, declared that Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Brice, the parents of Sister Adele, emigrated to America with a number of other Belgian families in 1855 and settled northeast of where the chapel stands.

"At that time woods covered these lands," said Sister Pauline. "The thick growth of cedar intermingled here and there with beech and maple, has dwindled to a little grove, and now the eye of the traveler sees cheerful looking farmhouses rising above the fields of ripening grain."

Adele was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brice. One day while returning from Bay Settlement with some girl companions, Sister Adele saw a bright light between a bench and a maple tree on her pathway. There appeared a beautiful lady dressed in sky-blue and wearing a crown-colored sash. Surprised and frightened Adele knelt down, gazing with childlike adoration at the heavenly apparition, which slowly vanished. Upon returning home Adele related the story to her mother. The following Saturday Adele accompanied by her mother was on her way to Bay Settlement to attend mass the following day.

They approached the spot where Adele had seen the vision, the pious girl again saw the beautiful lady. In a few minutes the lady vanished and they continued on their way to Bay Settlement.

Adele related her story to Father Deems. After listening attentively the priest said, "If the vision appears to you again, say this, 'In God's name what do you wish of me?'"

Adele, her sister and Mr. and Mrs. Vandermissen were on their way to Robinsonville the next day, and when they approached the bench and maple tree on the pathway Adele saw for the third time the beautiful lady. Recalling the words of Father Deems, Adele said, "In God's name what do you wish of me?"

"I am the queen of the heavens," replied the lady, "who prays for the conversion of sinners. This morning you have received my son within your breast and you have done well; but these poor children receive him without knowing what they do and are growing up in ignorance of their religion. Why are you idle when so many are losing the faith?"

"But what more can I do?" asked Adele, trembling. "I am but a poor, ignorant creature myself."

"Go and fear nothing," replied the heavenly queen. "I will help you," and with these words the vision vanished.

Adele lost no time in starting her work of conversion. Knowing her mission, nothing could discourage the pious maiden. She went daily from house to house in the heat of the summer or the bleak days of winter instructing the children. A shrine was erected between the two trees where the apparition appeared to Adele and a 10 by 1 foot school was built in 1864, where children from miles around came to receive their instructions.

25 WANT PLACES ON KAUKAUNA'S LEGION ELEVEN

Ashe Sets Forth Rigid Requirements For Players—May Play Sept. 30

Kaukauna—About 25 candidates for the American legion football team attended the opening meeting Monday evening in the legion hall. Reports of those present indicate that not less than 25 more men will report for practice and will endeavor to gain a position on the team. A conflicting report that the meeting would be held Tuesday night instead of Monday is believed responsible for the failure of many players to attend the get-together.

W. F. Ashe, who will coach the squad this season, occupied the chair and gave out a few hard and fast rules which must be followed during the year. Mr. Ashe said that during the last three years the Kaukauna team has come to stand for class in football, class in sportsmanship and class in the type of games it plays. It is becoming harder each year to find opponents to play the legion team because the athletic training of the local amateurs has made it superior to many a team which contained men for man, much more choice material. If athletic appearance counted for anything in the game, Kaukauna ought to have been beaten many times, Mr. Ashe said.

The only rules the coach set down to be adhered to were that the men must keep themselves in condition to give the best that is in them and that on the playing field or at practice, the cigar and cussing are taboo.

Promptness is another requisite in practice. Candidates must be in uniform and on the grounds not later than 7:30 for the first few nights. It is probable the time will be made earlier after a while. Uniforms will be distributed Thursday evening at the legion hall and the first short workout will be held the same evening on the playgrounds. The ball park will not be available until after the close of the baseball season on Sunday, Sept. 23. The squad will be called together again Friday to work off the stiffness of Thursday night's practice. Workouts probably will be held only three times next week but later the squad will be called out often. Arrangements are being made to secure a game on Sunday, Sept. 30. Edward Renniecke, who was made booking manager, was also instructed to secure about four games out of the city.

START MOVEMENT FOR LOCAL BAND

Pageant Demonstrates Need—Musicians May Be Called Together

Kaukauna—That the Elkette City needs a city band was demonstrated during the homecoming and pageant week when most of the men who furnished music were from out of the city. Old musicians here are talking over the idea of forming a band to practice all winter so that it will be capable of playing concerts next summer and making Kaukauna a city worth spending an evening in. The city officials have often expressed themselves in favor of appropriating money to pay for services of local musicians and the question has often been asked why no movement was started to secure a local organization.

Several citizens who play instruments have been approached and have readily fallen in with the idea. All young players are being urged to pick up their instruments and practice. Everyone will be given a chance in the band, for it has practically been decided that at least an effort will be made to start one.

It is expected that a general call will be sent out within a few days. It is understood that the use of a hall for practice has been granted. After the material for the band has been gathered and assembled according to the respective ability of the candidates, a capable director will be secured to train the organization for next year.

WEDDINGS AMONG COUNTY'S PEOPLE

Special to Post-Crescent.

New London—A quiet home wedding occurred here at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when Miss Irene Roloff, daughter of Gustave Roloff, became the bride of Alfred Worm, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Worm. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's father on Hancock by the Rev. Adolph Springer. Miss Carl Roloff, sister of the bride, and Arnold Deede, a cousin of the bridegroom, both of New London, attended the couple.

A 5 o'clock supper was served at the bride's home for the immediate families with Mrs. Edward Roloff and Mrs. Specht as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Worm left on a honeymoon trip of one week to Milwaukee. They will live in the George Freiburg or house on Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meizer of Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagel of this city autored to Oconto Sunday and visited Mrs. E. Lapola.

Miss Helen Nord is visiting Mrs. C. H. Winn in Fond du Lac.

Miss Anna Egan of Chicago, visited for the last week at the home of her uncle, Edward Egan.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McVerney of DePere spent Sunday as guests of Edward Egan.

KRAHN CHILD IN COMA FROM FALL DOWN SILO CHUTE

Boy Of 3 Is Found By Parents—Internal Injuries Believed Result

Special to Post-Crescent.

Seymour—Harold Krahn, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krahn, farmers living near here, has been unconscious for 24 hours as the result of a 12-foot fall through a silo chute at the Krahn farm Monday morning. The child appears to be injured internally but the exact nature of his wounds has not been learned.

"Nobody knows just how the boy happened to fall," it is supposed that he tried to climb a ladder which was within the silo chute and that he fell while doing so. He is believed to have struck a concrete manger when he fell, as there was about 5 feet of silo lingo which would have prevented injuries otherwise.

The parents of the child supposed he was playing with other children outside and did not miss him for a time. It is not known just how long he lay in the chute.

Handle. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Anton H. Hietpas of this place; Mrs. William Mickey, Kaukauna; Mrs. John Hopfensberger, Darby; one son, Fred Van Handle of this village. Funeral services will be held from St. John church at 2 o'clock Thursday morning with the Rev. J. Sprangers in charge. Interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

JOHN HERMSEN Little Chute—Funeral services for John Hermesen, who died Wednesday, were held at St. John church Saturday morning. Burial was made in the Catholic church cemetery. Those from out-of-town who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Gregory Deering and Mrs. Charles Van Evenhoven, Kaukauna; Mrs. J. Farley, Oconto Falls; Mrs. Frank Turek and daughter Elaine, Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Der Leist and Mrs. Peter De Groot, Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. George Kaster, Freedom.

CITY ENDEAVORING TO FINISH WATER MAIN EXTENSIONS

Bids Will Be Opened Sept. 17
For Remaining Work
Asked By Council

Sealed bids on pipe for extension of new water mains this fall will be opened at the next meeting of the Appleton water commission on Monday, Sept. 17. The commission hopes to be able to install the new mains authorized last Wednesday by the common council before frost sets in. If the water department can obtain a shipment of pipe before the latter part of October, it is probable that the main program can be finished.

All new mains authorized are of 6-inch in diameter. The program includes nearly two more miles of mains, most of which will be installed in the Third and Fifth wards. The Fourth ward will receive 1,250 feet, the First ward 540 feet, the Sixth ward 1,020 feet, the Fifth ward 5,393 feet and the Third ward 3,965 feet.

The mains are located as follows: Mueller-st. Second-st. to Lenox-st.; Pine-st. Mason-st. to Outagamie-st.; Outagamie-st. Rogers-ave. to 600 feet south; Pierce-ave. Spencer-st. to Fifth-st.; Rogers-ave. Douglas-st. to Herber-st.; Virginia-st. Outagamie-st. to Douglas-st.; Outagamie-st. Virginia-st. to Franklin-st.; Oklahoma-ave. Richmond-st. to State-st.; North Division-st. present terminus to 500 feet north; Appleton-st. present terminus to 350 feet north; Randall-st. Drew-st. to Purkeest-st.; Commercial-st. Mead-st. to Rankin-st.; Walter-ave. Gunn-st. to Newberry-st.

BOY THIEVES MUST FORSAKE BAD WAYS

Judge Spencer Reprimands
Black Creek's Juvenile Gang
And Frees Them

Kindness was used by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday morning in an effort to break up a boy bandit gang of the village of Black Creek. The ringleader and three accomplices were taken before the judge, three on the charge of larceny and one on the charge of receiving stolen property.

The boys were all 11 years of age except the ringleader who was only 10. The leader confessed having broken into a number of mercantile houses as well as the Soo line depot. Their activities began about a year ago but were more active during the last three months. They were discovered by a detective of the Soo line. The gang which included about 10 had taken money, food and various articles of merchandise, and by their cunning were able to elude capture for many months. They knew how to use keys and seemed to be well acquainted with burglar's tricks. They said they had not attempted to rob the postoffice for the reason that a sick woman lived next door and was up at all hours of the night.

Judge Spencer admonished a severe scolding and preached them a sermon on integrity. He then dismissed the boys with the warning that if they would fare worse with them if the offense would be repeated. The leader stays with his aged grandfather, as his mother is dead and his father works out of town. He was the youngest of the gang.

Devout Man Blew Up Dam At Medina When Men And Boys Played Hookey On Sabbath Day

BY W. F. WINSEY

MEDINA village once had a mill dam which not only furnished power for industry but caused the forming of a small lake which was the mecca of fishers, hunters and swimmers. Although it had a prominent place in the village activities the dam has been out of existence for 20 years. The story told by villagers as to how it ceased to exist is one of the interesting sidelights on Medina history.

"Twenty years ago or thereabouts, James McClellan who then owned the mill pond and sawmill in Medina dynamited and blew out the dam and drained the pond," says Fred Breyer of that place.

For 40 years before that memorable detonation rattled the windows in Medina and startled the inhabitants, the escaping waters of the pond had forced the lazy old drag saw of the mill up empty through gigantic white oak and pine logs that farmers had hauled to the mill, and down again in ceaseless regularity, with its heavy freight of sawdust, though a cut wide enough to admit a scantling.

The churning and swish of the saw, the grinding of cogs, the growling of the waterwheel under its heavy load, the pounding of cranks, the jolting of carriage and all other discordant notes and noises of the mill, were melody in the ears of early settlers who depended on the output of the mill for lumber to build their houses and barns.

BUILT IN 1857
"The dam and original mill were built in 1857 by Corneal Kuntz at the urgent request and with the help of the settlers of that day," says Lawrence Lenton who gave the date and said he was present at the raising of the mill.

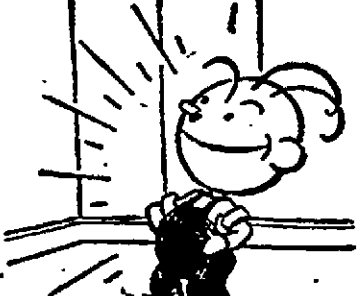

Beside helping with the construction of the dam and mill, the owners donated the land to be submerged but neglected to transfer the title to Mr. Kuntz. After the mill had finished the work for which it was built, this trifling oversight with reference to the title became the bone of threatened legal contention.

When the water in the pond assumed the proportions of a lake, the turtles, muskrats and frogs living in the marshes and bogs to the south and west of Medina became dissatisfied with their habitat, and began emigrating from their pot holes and, by sneaking, paddling and leaping, reached a better home and background on the shores and in the clear waters of the Medina pond, and at the same time blackbirds and swallows, mallards, teal, jacksnipe and woodcock came to investigate and were so well pleased that they made Medina pond their summer home.

SUPPLIED WITH FISH
"Very early in the history of the mill pond," says E. W. Breyer, "Capt. Young, Harris Miller, and George Bray, fishermen of that day, went over to Lake Poygan, caught bullheads, pickerel and pike by the barrel with a net and returning dumped their catch into the Medina mill pond. Then they caught speckled trout in the north and planted them in the brooks and springs above the pond."

These fish and birds and animals began to multiply and replenish the shores and pond with their kind and thus did Medina become the sporting place of the village.

In the old days, houses were built with big, roomy attics. That space is valuable now. To make the most of it, buy some sheets of this different wall-board. When you get through nailing it to the joists or studding, you will have a new room or two—neat, smooth-surfaced, cool in summer and warm in winter, fireproof, too—all because of Sheetrock.

ground of local hutners, fishermen and trappers. On Sunday, especially, the pond was noisy with hunters and the shores were lined with men and boys fishing bullheads.

Farmer boys began by the hundreds to use the mill pond as a swimming hole on nights and Sundays and became expert swimmers.

If the Medina sportsmen had not broken the Sabbath with their sport, if the boys had confined their swimming to week days, if Mr. Kuntz had not neglected to get title to the submerged land or if the Salvation army had not set up its barracks in Medina at the time fishing and swimming were in progress on Sundays, the Medina mill pond would probably be in existence now, still the habitat of aquatic life, the playground of local sportsmen and the swimming hole of boys and men.

SUNDAY PLEASURE
"When the Salvation army invaded Medina," says E. W. Breyer, "fishing, boating and swimming were at their height on the old mill pond on Sundays and I often counted 100 boys in the water at one time and as many more holding their fish poles over the water."

As these boys and men were not in church or listening to the services of the Salvation army on the streets, they could not be dealt with personally and be induced to keep the Sabbath day. But the owner of the mill pond could be reached. Had he not enlisted and become a recruit in the ranks of the Salvation army? Was he not a sympathetic listener to the services on the streets, and a generous contributor?

The influence Salvation army had on Mr. McClellan, can be measured only by his actions. Sunday after Sunday he tried to chase the fishermen and swimmers from the pond. The older people he encountered in his raids around the pond paid no attention to his orders, but the birds and the small boys did. As the noise approached, the birds took wing, and swung out over the pond in a wide circle and dropped down behind the disturbance. The boys on the other hand left the water as the old man approached, ducked shorewards and took to the brush. As the owner withdrew, they returned to finish their swim. This performance was repeated often around the shore of the pond but the old man saw that he was making no headway in accomplishing his purpose.

As a result of each repetition of failure, he was becoming more determined. He knew a way to stop boys and men from breaking the Sabbath on his mill pond. So one morning, as has been said, the people of Medina were startled by the rattling of windows and a muffled explosion followed by the roar of rushing water.

WANTED TO REBUILD
"About a year after the dynamiting of the Medina dam, Elton Bacon, E. W. Breyer and Deles Farmer, representing a large element of the local population," says E. W. Breyer, "became active in the matter of repairing the dam and got permission and promised aid to do so from the owner, Mr. McClellan. Their argument was that the pond would be exceedingly valuable as a place to harvest ice, to fish, to skate and to swim."

"I owned 15 acres on the east side of the stream, Julius Oelke 20 acres to the north and west and Mr. McClellan 40 acres to the south," says Fred Breyer.

"When the people who were in favor of restoring the pond were all ready to begin operations," says E. W. Breyer, "they were prevented by Fred Breyer and other land owners who considered the land more valuable to them than a pond would be to the public."

The land owners were ready to guard the titles to their land and to prevent the rebuilding of the dam.

As has been said, the original mill

HOFFMAN DIRECTOR OF STATE MASTER BAKERS

Erwin Hoffmann of Appleton was elected one of the directors of the Wisconsin Association of Master Bakers at the annual convention of the organization last week at Oshkosh. The next convention will be held in Milwaukee.

Definite action was taken in the matter of encouraging apprenticeship for bakers and a committee was appointed to work in conjunction with the state industrial commission in formulating a feasible plan for apprenticeship in Wisconsin. The convention also adopted a resolution condemning the practice in certain bakery shops of selling bread below cost and distributing the loss to other bakery products.

Among the speakers was W. F. Simon of the state industrial commission.

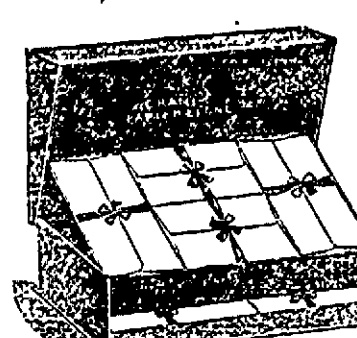

was built by Mr. Kuntz in 1857. James Kennedy later became the owner, then Henry Balliet, William Weichel and Daniel Keen, James McClellan, and Mr. Hopkins. What is left of the mill property including the last building used as a mill now used as a barn, is now owned by Mr. Hopkins.

The first step in the restoration of the Medina mill pond for the use of boys and men as a fishing and swimming place, and for power and the harvesting of ice, is of necessity the purchase from the present owners of the land to be submerged, amounting to about 80 acres.

"You Bet I Care Who Made the Oil"

THE experienced motorist—the driver in heavy traffic—the man who drives many hours a day—specifies Polarine. He takes no chances. He wants to know who guarantees the quality of the motor oil he uses.

Drivers of taxicabs and commercial cars are heavy users of Polarine. They know that scientific lubrication is more than an economy—it is a necessity. And they know that the name "Standard Oil Company (Indiana)" means scientific lubrication. Continually increasing sales prove that Polarine is delivering the best lubricating service obtainable.

There is a grade of Polarine which exactly fits the needs of your car (consult chart). In manufacturing Polarine the bore and stroke, piston design, valve construction, lubricating and cooling system—and all other mechanical features are considered carefully. Polarine insures full compression, hence, full power.

Use Polarine
THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL

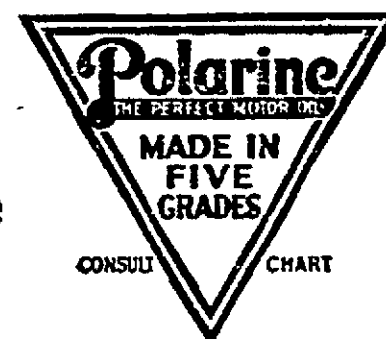

Made in Five Grades

One of these will correctly lubricate your engine. It is of the right viscosity under all temperatures. Polarine resists heat—it does not break down—it maintains a perfect film between the moving metal parts. There's never a "dry spot" when you use Polarine.

Polarine limbers up quickly in cold weather. This means easy starting—less wear and tear.

It pays to ask "Who made this oil?" Polarine is made by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). For the makers of Polarine have the organization to produce the right lubricants and the pride of sustained ideals to maintain the quality of production over long periods of years. Quality always follows the name "Standard."

The words flowed easily from her lips, with the steady conviction of a sorceress—and it was within the bounds of possibility that she put a spell upon Moorhouse, because she was going, leaving him without a memory of the manner of her going—and a golden bangle resting in the folds of his white tunic. He gathered a little later that her arrival and departure constituted as much a mystery to all as to himself.

In the solitude of his room he had turned that bangle over and over between his sun-tanned fingers, trying to discover some reasonable motive for such a gift.

Accordingly, with due regard to the value of the bracelet and to the fact that white magistrates in black countries are scarcely in the habit of accepting gifts from fascinating dancing-girls, Moorhouse had established it pretty clearly in the local mind that the girl was to be found and brought to him, that he might have an opportunity of returning to her the missing property.

This was a month ago and still no trace had been found of the girl with the silver hands. But, although human memory is inclined to be short-lived and many events were crammed into four short weeks of Moorhouse's existence, that one incident at the padi-harvest kept cropping up when the curtain of night dropped suddenly and the D. O. was free to induce in his glass of whiskey at sundown, his long chair, his bath and the company of his dog.

As Moorhouse lay, inert, waiting for the native boy to announce the arrival of dinner, an orderly in round hat and bare feet pattered up the steps and, saluting respectfully, presented the district officer with a letter that had just arrived by native runner.

"Dear Moorhouse," it ran. "More trouble for you, I'm afraid. The Yellow Seven business has broken out again and three planters have been attacked one of them fatally. Chai-Hung—leader of the gang—has been traced to your area. Am sending reinforcements. Co-operate with Dawson and do your best to round up Pennington will be with you almost immediately—Hewitt."

He rose somewhat wearily to his feet and, crossing to the lamp, read the missive again. Presently he glanced up sharply.

"All right!" The orderly saluted and disappeared. The magistrate stubbed his toe against a corner of the book-case, swore softly to himself and shouted for his slippers. While awaiting the advent of the boy, he cut out a photograph of the bandit and surveyed it curiously. He saw a fat Oriental, staring blandly from the portrait through a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles. At the time when the picture was made, Chai-Hung had been the most respected Celestial in the archipelago; today, thanks to the efforts of Chinese Pennington, the robber-chief stood revealed in his true colors.

The boy shuffled in with the slippers, but still Moorhouse did not stir. He was thinking of the Yellow Seven and the resourcefulness of its notorious leader. Hitherto his district had been mercifully free from the unwelcome attentions of the organization to which almost every Chinaman on the island belonged, but Dawson had had considerable dealings with Chai-Hung, and Moorhouse was asked to co-operate with Dawson.

It was with mixed feelings that he sat down to table and dissected a helping of buffalo-meat. He was in the act of consigning Hewitt, Dawson, Chai-Hung and Pennington to the deuce when the black chow shot, barking, from the kitchen-quarters up to the veranda. The magistrate, rising through the open doorway, caught a glimpse of a dark form dimly outlined against the blackness.

"Tuan, will you call your dog?" The voice came from the stairs. Moorhouse took the lamp from the bracket and, holding it beyond the wooden rail, peered over. Presently he uttered a muffled exclamation and replaced the lamp. He whistled up the dog.

"Come here," he commanded—and the girl obeyed.

"You are the girl who danced in the Kampon?" "Tah, tuan."

She held herself very erect and Moorhouse noticed that the strong of shimmering green had given place to one of terra-cotta. She leant almost insolently against the veranda rail and surveyed the Englishman calmly. He passed her a clearset and wondered where she had learnt to light it over the chimney of a lamp.

"What is your name?" he demanded presently.

"I have no name," Moorhouse moistened his lips. "Where do you come from?" "I have no home."

The district officer frowned and the girl laughed—a delightfully disarming laugh that almost made Moorhouse forget the dignity that his office demanded.

"You have come for your bracelet?" She shook her head and the lines of her handsome face hardened.

"I come not for the bracelet," she told him, "because I am a child of the forests, taking when I wish to take and giving when I desire to give—neither giving back nor taking back. I give to my friends and take from my enemies."

"Why have you come to me?" he inquired bluntly.

"The Tuan-Hakim is wise," she murmured, fazing down at the straw sandals that protected the soles of her feet.

"Admitted!" returned Moorhouse cheerfully. "What then?"

"When I heard the music of the songs and saw the smoke of the fires rising above the tallest trees, a voice whispered to me to go closer—and I went. Presently, beyond the smoke, I saw the faces of the chiefs. And then I saw the white coat of the Tuan-Hakim. The beating of those brass drums called me and I danced for you, because I said this man is he who sits alone in the big house among the cocopalms, who reads and knows the right from the wrong—the good from the bad. You beat your hands together, tuan, and I was content."

A dreamy note had come into her voice and it sounded in the D. O.'s ears like the soothing sound of a wood-pigeon from her nest.

"There are times, oh white man, when it is good to have a friend I am your friend," she concluded simply.

And still Denis Moorhouse felt hopelessly at sea. He glanced back over his shoulder toward the living-room and his half-finished meal, then the tumbler from the arm of his chair and sent the soda sipping into the amber fluid. All the time, while he strove to establish a mental balance he felt the girl's eyes were fixed on him and the mocking light that played in them made him uneasy.

"I am a busy man," he protested, "and I am tired I do not yet understand the motive that has brought you here."

Again that intoxicating smile. She leaned backward over the rail so that the lightning folds of her sarong accentuated the graceful curves of her form; the garment seemed to have become part of her, like the plumage of a bird or the down of a gorgeous butterfly that flutters for a brief moment in the sunlight and is gone. Moorhouse knew that she would go—knew that she must go; but a strange, uncontrollable desire was swiftly building itself up within him to postpone the moment of her departure.

"The Tuan-Hakim will remember that when I left the clearing I ran quickly into the forest. I had gone but a little way through the trees when something tripped me and I fell. One of the silver things that a chief had made for me slipped from my hand and I looked up presently to see that a very fat—had picked the thing from the grass and was looking at it. I sprang at him like a tiger-cat, but a second man held my arms from behind, so that I could not move. There were other Chinamen in the jungle, for I could hear the bushes as they moved. The man who held the silver hand carried one arm in a black cloth and his face was very evil. After a little while he drew his arm from the cloth and thrust under my eyes the clump where a hand had been."

"Which hand was it?" interrupted Moorhouse quickly.

"You are sure of this?"

It had come back to the D. O.'s memory that Pennington had told him how one of his men had revered Chai-Hung's left hand at the wrist.

"I have reason to be sure, because the silver sheath in my lost was from my left hand. I—who am afraid of nothing—feared this man. 'Black girl,' the orang-China said, 'I have more need of this thing than you, therefore I shall keep it.' Presently from the folds of his coat he produced a knife. 'Bring me the head of the Englishman who sat in the clearing when you danced—and you shall have your hand.' He walked away into the trees and it was a long while before he returned. 'Listen,' he said again. 'There is a white man whom the natives call 'He Who Sees in the Dark.' Kill him—and I will give you hands of gold—that all other dancers may envy you.'"

VALLEY MILLS HAD NO SLUMP THIS SUMMER

Optimistic About Outlook For Winter In Both Waterpower And Business

Even with the handicap of low water which has made it necessary for them to use steam as auxiliary power, Fox river paper manufacturers are emerging from the usual dull period of the summer months without having closed their mills or having reduced their force of employees.

While many of them continue still to partially operate their plants with steam they are optimistic about the fall and winter and are looking forward to better conditions both as to power and business.

The mills for the last 60 days have been allowed only about 30 per cent of the natural flow of the river. The rains of the last two weeks have had very little effect on Lake Winnebago, the water of which is still below the crest of the Menasha dam. The low water is attributed both to the drought during July and August and to the lack of snow in the northern part of the state last winter.

Orders have been light but compared with previous summers they make a favorable showing and have been sufficient to keep the plants in operation. A revival of business is anticipated with the approach of fall and winter in spite of the threatening conditions in Europe.

For the first time in recent years the shipment of pulpwood to Fox river valley mills has continued uninterrupted throughout the summer. Heretofore it has usually slackened up to scattering cars late in the summer and early in the fall, but this summer has been an exception and at present from 40 to 60 carloads are arriving daily. A considerable amount of the wood comes from Canada and is rafted across Lake Superior to Washburn.

Blue River Man Picks Up Sack

Blue River, Wis.—With the finding of $10,000 in bonds and other securities believed to be part of the loot obtained by bandits who robbed the Blue River State bank on the night of July 18, detectives have re-opened investigation of the case. The discovery of the stolen property was made by Joseph Wanek, a farmer, when he picked up a sack by the side of the road.

Bank officials are inclined to believe that the securities were tossed to the roadside within the past few days by the same men who attempted to rob the Morrisville State bank on Friday night.

CHOOSE COUNTY ROADS FOR NORTHERN TRIPS

Tourists in mapping out their routes to northern Wisconsin are making use of county secondary roads instead of federal and state trunk highways to a great extent because of the roughness of the latter, according to Fred V. Heinemann, who has lately returned from a trip to that part of the state.

The corduroy appearance of the surface of some of the unpaved trunk lines is due to the impulse of the engines and was unknown until the six cylinder engine made its appearance, said Mr. Heinemann.

ON THE SCREEN

GASNER'S LATEST MARVEL OF BEAUTY

For sheer pictorial beauty few motion pictures have ever approached the perfection reached in the E. P. Schulberg production of Bertha M. Clay's immortal romance, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," at Elite tonight for its final showing.

The story transpires in Madrid where luxuriant gardens, shadowy patios and tropical sunsets delight the eyes. Estelle Taylor, who plays Rosita, the fascinating prima donna, contributes a Spanish type of beauty which off-sets her gorgeous costumes of richly embroidered shawls, high combs, lovely fans and mantillas of rare grace.

Nor is the lovely setting lessened when the plot moves the action to Louisiana. Here the audience sees the dignified and colonial home of a southern gentleman with all the atmosphere of plantation life. Edith Roberts as his daughter is the idealized type of American girlhood, and makes one of the most charming young brides ever to grace our screen.

But while the mounting of the feature and the quality which Mr. Schulberg has given to the production is a continual delight, the audience is carried along with a story of fine drama and tense reality. To divulge the plot would be an injustice to those who are to see the film but it is sufficient to say that it is the story of a young American merchant who is brought to choose between an infatuation for a famous opera singer and the love of a childhood sweetheart. One fails to wonder that the story has long been a favorite with American readers and that the stage play has held a record for popularity.

SCREEN GIVES LESSON TO HUSBANDS

The modern woman has her innings in "The Lonely Road," which is said to be one of the most compelling dramas yet screened by Katherine MacDonald.

In support of the star is an able cast, including Orville Caldwell, Kathleen Kirkham, Eugene Bessner, Wil-

How to tell for sure—what oil your car needs To the Man who owns—

a Ford

In design, construction, operation, and lubrication, the Ford is unique. The engine oil must adequately and efficiently lubricate both transmission and multiple disc clutch. In Ford engine lubrication the following points must be considered:

- (1)—The Ford connecting rod bearings have no oil holes or oil grooves, nor are the lower ends of the connecting rods equipped with oil dippers or splashers. Hence the need for oil which atomizes readily and distributes freely throughout the entire bearing area.
- (2)—The Ford pistons over-run the valve seat level. Any excess of oil carried up by the pistons readily finds its way onto the valves and seats. Hence the need of a clean-burning and non-carbon forming lubricant. Otherwise gumming of the valves results.
- (3)—The Ford Planetary transmission operates in a bath of engine oil. The close-fitting sleeves and bushings demand a free-flowing oil of correct body to insure thorough distribution to these parts.
- (4)—The Ford multiple disc clutch operates continually in a bath of engine oil. A free-flowing oil of the correct body and character is necessary to assure positive, quick engagement with no slipping and an instantaneous release of the clutch without dragging.
- (5)—Chattering of Ford transmission bands comes from incorrectly adjusted bands or worn out linings, and is aggravated by unburned fuel mixed with the lubricating oil. In such cases the diluted oil should be replaced with fresh oil and the bands correctly adjusted or the linings renewed. To attempt to remedy such mechanical conditions by the use of so-called "anti-chattering" oils containing foreign material which may separate, or lard oil, wool grease or other animal fats which decompose under heat, is obviously wrong and likely to cause gumming of the valve stems, carbon deposit and other troubles.

Gargyle Mobiloil "E" is free from foreign material or animal fats. It is of the correct body, character and fluidity and especially manufactured to scientifically meet the exacting requirements of Ford cars both summer and winter.

a Buick

Your Buick engine, because of its large reserve horse-power and efficient cooling system, operates at comparatively low temperatures. With Buick valve-in-head construction the cooling area of the combustion chambers is relatively small. This, together with compression pressure of 75 lbs. makes this engine sensitive to any appreciable carbon deposits, particularly in view of the present day fuels. Where excessive carbon deposits exist, "pinging" or knocking results. To minimize carbon deposits under these conditions, your engine requires a well refined, clean burning oil which will be thoroughly distributed by the lubricating system.

For all Buick models (except 1923) use Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic both summer and winter. The 1923 Buick engine differs from previous models, in so far as lubrication is concerned. The splash troughs are covered, leaving a slot through which the splash dipper passes to project the lubricant. This baffled splash trough design appreciably reduces the quantity of oil distributed so that the lubricating oil will not splash to the cylinders in excess quantities or reach the combustion chambers too freely.

The two center crankshaft bearings are supplied with oil under pressure.

These changes in the 1923 Buick construction permit the use in summer of an oil heavier in body and richer in character than heretofore without the possibility of objectionable carbon accumulations.

Hence, for the 1923 Buick, Gargyle Mobiloil "A" in summer and Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic in winter will insure correct lubrication.

Studebaker engines are of the six-cylinder, four-stroke, cycle, vertical type. The cylinder head is detachable and the valve arrangement is of the L-head type.

Studebaker pistons are equipped with a special oil-return groove and oil drain holes which allow excess quantities of oil on the cylinder walls to drain back into the crankcase reservoir.

The Studebaker lubricating system is of the splash circulating type, employing a gear type oil pump located on the outside of the crankcase and considerably above the oil level.

The lubrication of the cylinder walls, the pistons, piston rings, and piston pin bearings depends upon an oil mist. This mist is

a Chevrolet 490

Your Chevrolet 490 engine is of valve-in-head construction and designed for high compression pressures of approximately 87 pounds.

The lubricating system is of the splash circulating type. The gear type oil pump is in an exposed position directly in back of the radiator, and is considerably above the level of the oil in the reservoir. There are long lengths of exposed oil piping on both the suction and discharge sides of the pump.

All engine parts except the centre crank-

a Studebaker

shaft bearing are lubricated by an oil mist caused by the dipping of the connecting rod splashers in the oil troughs provided under each cylinder. Oil is forced under pressure to the centre crankshaft bearing.

Carbon deposits in this engine, because of the high compression pressures and combustion chamber construction, are particularly objectionable. Correct lubrication is essential to the maintenance of high efficiency. Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic will leave a minimum of carbon deposits, and is of the correct body and character to provide adequate engine lubrication under all operating conditions.

The use of Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic both summer and winter will assure correct engine lubrication and lead to the satisfactory performance you have a right to expect of your Chevrolet.

Under winter operation, it is imperative that the oil used be of the proper fluidity to provide a positive priming of the elevated oil pump. Otherwise, failure of the pump to deliver oil to the engine will result.

Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic is of the proper body to assure positive priming of the Studebaker pump under winter operation. Because of its character and fluidity, it will atomize readily and thoroughly, thus providing proper distribution to all engine parts, even when freezing temperatures are experienced.

Gargyle Mobiloil "A" and Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic respectively are best suited to the summer and winter lubrication requirements of these engines. Their use will insure maximum engine performance with a minimum of wear and depreciation.

Because of the well-finished cylinder bores, close-fitting pistons and the adequate drainage of these pistons, Gargyle Mobiloil "A" will not form objectionable carbon deposits and a thorough and efficient sealing of the piston rings will be assured.

Don't say: "Give me a quart of oil" Ask for

FAIR RETAIL PRICE—30c A QUART

When the dealer sells a quart of Gargyle Mobiloil for less than 30c, he does not make his fair, reasonable profit. Lower prices often accompany substitution of low-quality oil for genuine Gargyle Mobiloil. Prices are slightly higher in Canada, the Southwest, and the Far West.

TO OWNERS OF ALL CARS

It is far more beneficial to the engine if you add a small quantity of oil every day rather than larger quantities at less frequent intervals. Careful car operators, taxi cab companies, and owners of motor truck fleets make it a practice to see that the oil is at the proper level every morning before the car goes out. With a five gallon can or fifteen or thirty gallon drum of the correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil on hand, you will always be ready to give your car this valuable attention.

The crankcase should be entirely drained of oil at least every one thousand miles in summer and every five hundred miles in winter. When draining the oil, the removable screen (if your car has one) should also be cleaned. Drain off the old oil when the engine is warm, as the oil then flows more freely and tends to wash out any foreign matter. (Never flush the crankcase with kerosene.) Then refill with correct grade of Gargyle Mobiloil.

If your car has not been mentioned here, see our complete Chart of automobile recommendations. Garages and dealers have this Chart on their walls. It appears also in our booklet, "CORRECT LUBRICATION," which we will gladly send you on request. Address our nearest branch.

Dempsey-Firpo Bout Toss Up, Jess Thinks

EQUALLY MATCHED

Well, I analyzed their qualities in fighting them both and in thinking them over while my bruises healed, they are pretty equally matched, man to man. They are much more on the same level than the crowd in the arena is going to believe before the fight.

The champion hasn't any walk over at all. The challenger could do better later, but he is a first-class fighting man now.

heavyweight fight than anywhere else in the boxing game. I count luck for at least 30 per cent.

first with a decisive blow. The one who lands a knockout need not be the heaviest hitter.

JESS'LL BE THERE

As soon as the gong sounds, as I done this fight Dempsey will rip into Firpo with everything he has, Dempsey doesn't wait for them to come to him.

Firpo, in our fight started right in the center of the ring, never gave any ground and kept hammering away. That is his style. I believe Dempsey will find Firpo ready to stick right along at his pace and shoot back as savagely as he receives.

Usually I don't go to fights as a spectator. I intend not to miss this one.

It ought to be a superbattle for

Watson, Star Of Gotham Giants

Philadelphia—Even the greatest of managers, leaders of the type of John McGraw and Connie Mack type, can make mistakes in their judgment of ball players.

Pitcher John Watson of the New York Giants is delighted that Connie Mack was unable to see him as a pitcher and after a thorough trial sent him back to the minors.

Watson some years ago was secured by Mack from the Eastern League. At that time Connie's pitching staff was in such shape that any pitcher who could throw the ball had a chance.

Watson met with some success and much failure as a member of the Athletics. Perhaps his most noteworthy feat was the pitching of a double header. He lost both games but by close scores. Watson seemed

Fate first frowned and then smiled on Watson. He came back to the majors as a member of the Eastern

Since joining New York, Watson has pitched good ball and is now on the high road to superstardom. He seems the high road to prosperity. He seems certain to cut in on a fat portion of the world series.

FAREWELL DINNER

IS GIVEN PASTOR

E. H. Christianson Leaves Kimberly Church To Resume Studies

Special to Post-Crescent.

Kimberly—More than 75 people of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Kimberly assembled at the dining hall Friday evening in honor of their pastor, E. H. Christianson, who is leaving soon to continue his studies in Moravian college, Bethlehem, Pa.

Without the pastor's knowledge the congregation had gathered in the dining hall of Kimberly Clark Co. and the pastor was cleverly coaxed to go there. At 10 o'clock all gathered around the tables where a dinner supervised by the Ladies Aid society was served.

After the banquet a program was presented with readings by Miss Vivian Vial of Kimberly, piano solo by Miss Jane Ann Malcolm, Kimberly, readings by Miss Nina Benedict, Carroll college, Waukesha and a piano solo by Miss Jane Ann Malcolm, Kimberly.

V. W. Couillard, a former roommate of Mr. Christianson's at Moravian college, then gave the toast to the pastor and the congregation.

Alex Malcolm, treasurer of the church, with fitting comments, then presented the pastor with a purse from the congregation and also one from the Ladies Aid society, which amounted to more than a month's salary as a parting gift of appreciation.

Mr. Christianson has had charge of the Presbyterian work since Feb. 1 and under his leadership the church has shown a decided growth.

The congregation is looking forward to an encouraging year under the leadership of the new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Reeves, who will take up the work at Kimberly on Sept. 23.

Rotary Club Makes Donation Of $50—Total Now Is $544.50

Appleton's fund for relief of Japanese sufferers passed the $500 mark with contributions received up to noon Tuesday. The Rotary club voted $50 at its meeting and several other givers made liberal contributions. Mrs. W. H. Killen added $5 to the Memorial Presbyterian church gift. The total now is $544.50.

The American Red Cross still needs $500,000 to complete its fund, so the giving ought to continue. Givers may deposit money with the chamber of commerce or the Post-Crescent. Those who have contributed to date:

THREE C. O. F. MEETINGS ARE PLANNED IN COUNTY

Three meetings of courts of the Catholic Order of Foresters are planned in connection with the county membership campaign which Louis F. Nys, Superior, is conducting. Appleton court No. 132 will meet Tuesday night, the New London court Wednesday night and the Little Chute court Thursday. Organizations will be drafted to canvass for more members.

HILBERT MAN'S CAR IS OVERTURNED ON HIGHWAY

Michael Carney, farmer living near Hilbert, escaped with only a gash on the hand when his automobile turned over on state trunk highway 114 near Sherwood Saturday night. Mr. Carney turned out too far in passing another automobile near the Soo line railroad tracks and the machine tipped over on its side. He was alone at the time. The top and fenders on one side were damaged, causing Mr. Carney little loss but thieves ran up his repair bill by stealing a part of his accessories while the car was lying in the ditch.

Condition Unchanged
The condition of Mrs. Elizabeth Hayden, nurse at Riverview sanatorium, who was injured in a fall at the sanatorium last week is unchanged. Mrs. Hayden suffered fractures of the left shoulder and the right wrist when she fell down from the top step of a stairway. She is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

PERSONALS
Thomas P. Miller has returned to Chicago after a several days' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Miller, 347 Fifth-st.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Morrow and daughter Helen have gone to Milwaukee and Chicago, where they will be guests of friends for the coming week.

Frank Schneider and Carl Fose were Milwaukee visitors Tuesday.

R. E. Thickers of Menasha, formerly of Appleton, who was injured in an automobile accident, is able to be about.

Gerry was born in Appleton in 1871 and spent his entire life in this vicinity.

He is survived by his widow and one sister Mrs. James Wood of Appleton.

The funeral services will be held at Riverside chapel at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and burial will be made in Riverside cemetery.

MRS. P. H. MORAN
Mrs. P. H. Moran, a former resident of Appleton, died Sunday at Waukegan, according to word received by Capt. Patrick Vaughn of the police department. The body will be conveyed to Neenah aboard a Soo train arriving there at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and burial services will be held immediately afterward at St. Patrick cemetery.

Mrs. Moran moved from Appleton to Waukegan about 30 years ago. She was the wife of P. H. Moran, conductor on the old Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western railroad, now the Ashland division of the Northwestern road. She was a sister of the late Dr. J. D. Murphy, eminent surgeon.

The funeral of John Barton of Chicago, formerly of the town of Grand Chute, was held at 8:30 Monday morning from St. Mary church with burial at St. Mary cemetery. The bearers were Patrick Hayes, Thomas Landers, Richard Long, Francis Farrell, John Campbell and Michael Garvey of Freedom. Mr. Barton had made his home in Chicago for about 20 years and is survived by no relatives.

Window Decoration

By Marjorie
Howe Dixon

Before choosing materials for a given window there are several important details to consider, and several decisions to make before one can, as some one has so cleverly put it, "begin to start to commence."

Shall you exclude the view or frame it? Must there be plenty of light? Is the wood work decorative, possible or ugly? Should the room be heightened or lowered by the lines of the drapes? There—that is a questionaire to be sure. And each question is important.

The country house with all the beauties of nature surrounding it, has no need for heavy curtains and in many cases the outside view that one loves, is best framed by an unadorned textile.

The city house presents a more difficult problem. Where the outlook consists of brick walls or unsightly roofs or perchance, the alley, there one needs to shut away the view entirely and often this means cutting off the lights as well.

Then there is the problem of the remodeled house where the woodwork is old and battered, or perhaps ugly in design. There one needs a valance, and side drapes that will effectively conceal the offending window frames.

PROBLEMS OF TEMPERAMENT
Besides all these problems that confront the home decorator there is that much more elusive matter—temperament. The young miss loves bow knots and will trim her valance with them, or have little formal flat bows.

quies, lace edged, for tie-backs. How would the boy like his windows done? Surely not the same. One boy's room is quite fascinating with simple walnut furniture, an old secretary, black silhouettes on the walls and straight drapes, with black figures on them.

One instinctively resists the idea of frilly trimmings for a man's room and while he may enjoy bright chintz sometimes, it must be formally hung, straight, or with a stiff tie-back.

Sharply contrasting with his, the man's, natural desire for simplicity, comes the fluffly, ruffled taffeta confection for milady's window, hung over row after row of ruffled scrim glass curtains.

Glass curtains could have a whole chapter of their own. Scrim and or embroidery would be most striking. If you cannot obtain such a lamp you might be able to buy the porcelain bird at a gift shop and have it mounted.

For a living room many cloisonne vases are useful. In fact most vases of metal, porcelain or pottery are available lamp bases. For the boudoir, little china figures of Spode, Dresden, Italian or French pottery figures combine delightfully for milady's vanity table.

SILK LAMP SHADES
There is nothing, however, so appropriate for a living room or bedroom as silk for shading. Color combinations can be made with greater variety. There is a softness about silk which cannot be surpassed. The home decorator will find that for general utility color combinations such as rose or mulberry, with putty, tan or gold will be most effective. Blues and greens together with orchid are good trimmings.

Yes I am quite sure we are all perfectly willing to change old lamps for new whenever we visit the shops.

marquessette are favorites, point de'esprit may be used, and then there are the fish nets, of square heavy mesh. These most naturally should be hung with the heavier materials, like linen and velour.

WOODEN CURTAIN RINGS

When one speaks of linens it promptly brings to mind the use of wooden rings that has become so popular. These are painted a color selected from the linen pattern, or black. And the curtain rods themselves have become a beautiful decorative part of the whole scheme. For many of them are wrought iron with twisted finials and further enriched by graceful iron ornaments at the center.

Painted cast iron tie-backs have many possibilities. A pair may take a contrasting color to that of the curtains, a color to match the wood work or be painted many soft colors where the design suggests a bouquet. Formal combinations of dull gold and black are sometimes made of carved wood, sometimes of metal.

In the printed materials, hand blocked lines are appropriate for some rooms. Glazed chintz is always good and comes in both large and small patterns. One of the newer materials is toile de jouy. The designs used in this drapery stuff are usually classic in character, with a decided French influence, and enjoy displaying animals or figures or both. There is, of necessity, a certain formality about them which will not appeal to every one, and which limits their use to the right room,—toile de jouy in the wrong room would indeed be awful to contemplate.

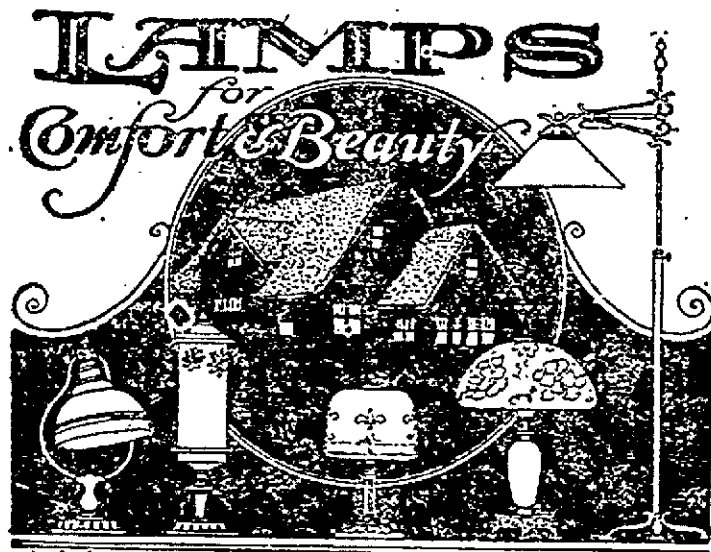

What shall one say of edgings? There is so vast a selection, that every sort of combination is possible. A favorite with taffeta is a ruffled or pleated edge of the stuff itself or a picquot edge in points.

FRINGE FOR CURTAINS

Fringe is used for many linens and cretonnes, adding occasionally a quaint tassel here and there. Drops of jade may be effectively used on a valance of Chinese lines. Gayer still is the use of sprays of glass flowers connected by swags of crystal beads.

Beads—wooden ones have been used for fringe and what could be more unusual and distinctive? Among the novel combinations of materials is that ruffled dotted swiss in colors with a patterned line. Narrow ruffles of orchid alternated with gold to form the valance, from under which hung straight drapes of the linen. The bed spread in this pretty room completed the idea with similar ruffles of the swiss for its valance.

There is among all these suggestions ample opportunity for each of us to make up our windows genuinely artistic—the best rule by which this may be accomplished is to combine utility with beauty.

© MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

"New lamps for old, new lamps for old," cried the deceitful Moor the peddler in Aladdin's time and persuaded Badura, Aladdin's wife to part with that famous lamp, the source of his wealth.

Aladdin, with all his treasures heaped high about him, could not have imagined our modern lamps, with all their variety of shapes, material and size.

True beauty is that which recognizes utility, and never for a moment ignores it. A really beautiful lamp fits in particular niches, in every way. —It throws light where light is needed,—it protects the eyes from glare,—it glows pleasantly over a person's face with a healthy color,—it does not make you look pale or weirdly blue.

Do you need your light high? Indirect chandeliers, or wall sconces or a tall floor lamp takes care of this. Do you need the light low? A junior floor lamp or a bridge lamp may be just the thing or a table lamp placed exactly right. In fact a pair of lamps for a library table is a generally acceptable idea.

Among the floor lamps are those of wrought iron. The new styles show great refinement in design. The iron standard is enriched with tassels, finials and leafing and thickly covered with gold or silver leaf and color. This refinement permits the home decorator to use silk or parchment for her shades. In the floor lamps made of wood slender designs prevail. The old fashioned imitation mahogany bulbously turned, or the carved lamp with a shade violent red and blue, balloon-like proportions, with perhaps several patches of scenery,—this type of floor lamp of a few years ago has given place to the slender low designs with small shades.

HANDY READING LAMPS
There is nothing so handy as the adjustable reading lamp which can stand conveniently at the side of your chair, desk or bed. Some folks call them bridge lamps because they are so exactly right for lighting a card table without throwing a glare in the guests' faces.

If one desires a particularly exotic lamp for a dark corner or hallway, a

"Where Low Prices Prevail"

WISCONSIN

Models shown by courtesy The Hub, Chicago.

Haberdashery is usually referred to as the minor accessories of dress and yet each season men are considering them more and more with major importance. That is because styles are becoming more standardized. In past days there was no definite acceptance of what was to be the proper shirt, tie or hosiery style of the season and men indulged in the greatest latitude in selecting their furnishings.

Today, if you really desire the correct thing, you can find charted channels of the trend of fashion and as you adhere or degress from them depends your standing as a correctly attired man.

The man who has a penchant for shirts with matched collars will find he may adopt them to his heart's content and be well within the edicts of fashion. That is so long as he confines himself to the laundered or stiff shirts and collars. The soft shirt with collar to match, even in the silk fabrics, has run its race and is no longer accepted with favor by those who automatically decree what the best dressed men shall wear.

FAVOR NARROW NEAT STRIPES
In these shirts the patterns that are considered smart are those of narrow neat stripes and small checked patterns and the color scheme confined to one or two shades—never more.

The entire shirt color scheme of the season is to be one of fairly subdued color effect. The higher colors and the bolder stripes are not as well placed in the fashion calendar as in past recent seasons. These apply less to the silk shirts than in the other fabrics but even in silks the milder effects are preferred.

Stripes will be good again as they have been in past seasons, but with new shadowy effects which will give a little variation. Check-stripes also will be shown, but most of these designs will be small and dignified.

As for prices, costs are practically stable. There may be a slight increase, due to a small advance in woollens since last spring, but this increase will be so small as to be hardly noticeable. Whatever advance there is will be found mostly in the cost of cheaper clothes. The prices of better made suits, topcoats and overcoats will remain about where they were twelve months ago.

Next to the collar-to match shirts the big note is the plain, solid colors in madras, poplins, oxfords, broadcloths and mercerized materials. Also in broadcloth silks and either dull finish or sheer finish effects. These come either with or without matched collars. White is very popular and next in order are the plain shades of medium and light blue, smoke and light greys, helio, corn color and ponce tans.

PLENTY OF COLOR IN NECK-WEAR

Men who want color somewhere in their apparel scheme will find plenty of latitude to indulge that desire in the neckwear styles and in all refined taste that is where high colors are best placed. Bias stripes in repps and mogadors are extremely tosy.

Allover floral effects and Paisley or Egyptian patterns will inherit much favor from the women's styles of the past season—these, of course, in cut and flat silks.

Black and white schemes are very well received—these in diagonal stripes and small floral effects. Knitted and crocheted ties while not quite so strong as last season will find many adherents in the more costly grades, this largely due to the rich effects introduced by specialists in the new weaving of knitted neckwear.

In these ties cathedral weaves and the closer effects are best—more heavily knit and rougher effects seem to have fallen back in popularity.

Groundline ties still hold their firm position and in these rather bold effects are the vogue.

NO CHANGE IN GLOVE STYLES

Not much that is new has appeared in glove styles. Mochas, capes and suedes for the early months with buckskins following as colder weather approaches. These gloves are made both with the plain backs and outseams and the colors are chiefly grey, brown, tan, mustard and oxblood.

In hosiery there is every indication that fancy effects will show more strength of popularity than heretofore. In the worsted and wool sock heather effects and Scotch patterns are profusely shown. Some of these clocked, some dress stitch and some without decoration.

In silks and lises while plain shades will be in majority there will be a noticeable increase in the adoption of fancy pattern treatments. Even the plain shades will be embellished with fancy clocks, embroidered designs and self patterns. Too great a variety of colors are shown to consider any particular shade as the outstanding note.

LOW COLLAR IS LIKED

In collars for day wear the rather low turn down collar is the vogue. These are with considerable opening at the neck permitting ample throat room and plenty of space to the knot which, by the way, is to be somewhat thicker than heretofore.

Semi-stiff collars have met with such approval for year 'round wear that these collars must be accorded first position in the fashions. For evening dress wear the wing collar is considered more fashionable than the turn down for dress wear.

The fashion in sweaters takes its lead from a standpoint of utility, the styles quickly changing according to the sport calendar. During the early months when golf is still possible the sweater jacket or sweater vest with sleeves is the feature. These are in hatter shades or light tone of brush-up wool.

HEAVY SWEATERS FOR WINTER

As the season advances to the football, hockey, and skating season the regulation sweater holds sway. These are in rope-stitch or shaker knit weaves with flowing collars. Plain tones, contrast trims, cottage stripes and the soft, rich tones of tans and greens and greys in brush-ups or Angora wools are the variety that will make up the public choice.

No noteworthy styles have been introduced in the fashions for underwear or pajamas. True, there are a few novelties but none that are expected to gain pronounced popularity. Patterned handkerchiefs are real fashionable this season for men—more so in linens than in silks. The real smart dresser has his handkerchief of white with a specially monogrammed motif in varying colors.

FABRICS MORE PRACTICAL

Manufacturers are returning to the practical ideas in fabric—fabrics that will look well and wear well, instead of the fluffy, soft finished materials of recent years. The weaves will be firmer. While the softer goods made a better presentation, they failed to give the required wear.

In topcoats there is no radical changes in styles, but its the tailoring that determines the quality. In line with this remark, it's the quality of anything, especially in clothes, that decides its real value. In conclusion let us say that it pays to pay a little bit more; for by paying that little extra you are saving in the long run.

DOUBLE-BREASTERS TO FRONT

The double-breasted suit which has shown streaks of popularity in recent years promises to come out with a greater flourish than ever.

The reason the double-breaster expects to come to the foreground is due to the fact that the new English cut garments lend themselves to these models. In the suits of this style, as well as other styles, most waistcoats have blunt bottoms. The trousers will, in many cases, be pleated at the top and straight hanging from knee to bottom. The width of the bottom will be left entirely to personal preference, but all will be cut liberally.

In colors the natural tendency is toward the darker shades, as has been the case in past seasons. There will be shown some of the lighter shades but not to any great extent. Among the staple colors will be brown and blue. These have had the call almost since the year man began to wear good clothes and they promise to continue in popularity for years to come.

The Costumes Suit Rules
With a Potent Hand

The costume suit is decidedly in vogue, particularly for autumn, for therein lies sufficient warmth to brave cool days, and sufficient smartness to brave almost any informal occasion. These certainly uphold our reputation for distinction—for the frocks are designed with an air of beauty and color and the coats are jaunty, indeed. In fashionable woolen fabrics, combined with vivid silks, and even more vivid embroidery. Practical in styling and price, $29.50 up to $100.00.

Autumn Frocks Observe the Rules of Simplicity

A good rule to follow, too, if the results of these frocks are any criterion. For here, simplicity is developed to a plane of Parisian chic, but so lovely are the fabrics, so correct the lines, that little adornment is necessary. The correct placing of graceful flounces, is narrow or wide folds. The gathering of modish pleats, in tiers, panels, or entire frocks. The use of embroidery, of ribbons, or lace. By these, can you recognize their smartness. Priced most moderate $12.75 up to $100.00.

Fall Style Exhibit

One notes the new style trends here with satisfaction. Fall and Winter 1923-1924 hold forth with French and American modes—originals and adaptations glorifying the American Woman. Your visit here will be prolific of the new ideas. You are cordially invited.

EXHIBITION ..... DAYS

Wednesday--Thursday--Friday--Saturday---This Week

A Well Chosen Coat is Important in the Smart Wardrobe

However simple the frock beneath, a smart coat makes a smart costume. And these will prove quite the smartest of any you have seen at such moderate prices. All kinds, from the perfectly tailored one for utility wear to the lavishly fur-trimmed for very dressy occasions when one goes bridge-ing or visiting. In every manner of fabric, smoothly finished or deep-piled. Solid tone or gay plaids. And at prices to suit every purse, $35.00 up to $225.00.

An Era of Stately Grace
Sponsors the New Millinery

Days of grande dames and courtly manners seem to have inspired these new chapeaux—for here one sees the same trailing feathers, the shadowing laces, the quaint lines, of olden days. Very becoming, too, they are—developed in silky veils, in satin, in duvelyn, in taffeta—in all the rich shades of autumn—in pokes, Gainsborough effects, cloches, or quaint shortback shapes. Priced at $5.00 up to $25.00.

Both shades and shapes in hats for fall and winter are to take their influence from the new notes in fashioning of suits and overcoats. The shape of the hat in its outlines will be modeled to create a harmonious effect with the slightly broadening shoulders and wider trousers indicated in the suit styles. Accordingly:

In shapes the tendency is toward slightly broader brims and away from the extreme roll of '1919 that has been the outstanding feature of the small hat shapes of the past few seasons. This tendency is well conceived considering the slightly broader shoulders of the coats and the more ample widths of trouser legs than heretofore.

VARIATIONS OF DIMENSIONS

There will, of course, be variations of dimensions to conform with the varying types of faces for after all the good selection of a hat must be dependent on the physical conformity of the face and the head. These varying dimensions, however, do not interfere with the general scheme of ward brims in relation to the height of crown.

In colors for this fall greys are given great emphasis, retelling the browns and tans so popular last fall to second place in the colors. Underneath there is to be no total eclipse of the brown and tan shades, no more and for the same reason than there will be a total eclipse of the tan and brown colorings in suits and overcoats. The shades of the garments influence the colorings in the head wear in equal degree that the models of the coats influence the shapings of the hats.

GREY A POPULAR COLOR

From this you will draw that grey is to be a popular color in the coloring fabrics and that is true. In these greys, drawn greys and smoke shades are the leaders.

The burly ulster with belt being in less prominence this season than last we may look for a little less ruggedness and ruggedness in the hats for winter. By that is meant that the less rough mixtures in hats will gain precedence slightly over the wool, velours and beavers and lean more toward the blended mixtures and scratch-ups.

DERBY HAT COMES BACK

There will even be many more dress overcoats shown than heretofore—fitted coats, ulsterettes and boy coats with these will develop an increasing popularity for the derby hat—a style that was greatly in retirement during the period when sport coats and greatcoats had the call exclusively.

You'll see lots of derbies worn by well dressed men particularly during the early days of Fall. These will be chiefly in black though in the East there is a tendency to introduce the grey and tan shades of other days.

In the soft hats there will be some black, dark blue and dark oxford grey hats worn. These are especially appropriate for evening dress wear with tuxedos and dinner jackets or with the darker shade suitings.

CLOTH HATS FOR MOTOR WEAR

Cloth hats too are showing considerable popularity. These are worn mostly for knockabout or motor wear and are quite appropriate to wear with the ulsterette overcoat. These are mostly tailored hats in tweeds and suiting mixtures in alpine shapes.

Caps are in two principal models—the one piece crown and the eight piece crown—the former are in very full shapes and have a shorter visor than the eight-piece caps.

Boys are going to be more like their dads this year than ever before that is in the clothing they wear. The little fellows are taking to the Norfolk in great numbers and the older boys of the Norfolk are steadily turning to the older boys' models. It looks very much like a general movement upwards in the matter of dress in accordance with age.

LARGE ROOMY OVERCOATS

Boys are going to keep warm this year because every maker has stressed warmth and bigness in their overcoats.

There seems to be a tendency toward the lighter colors and plaids. Those handsome overcoats have the call of predominance this year and every manufacturer in the country is showing these in many models and colorings.

Most of the overcoats have patch pockets. Belts, of course, are found on most every model. Sometimes they go all around and sometimes they are only half belts. At any rate the smart coat will have a belt because it seems to be the most important part of a coat. The first thing the boy does when he puts on an overcoat is to reach for the belt.

NORFOLKS HAVE THE CALL

Almost every suit worn by the boys of knicker age are Norfolk. In fact the young fellow almost refuses to wear any but a Norfolk model. Each suit has its distinctive cut or styling. Some are of course, showing models that button to the neck but one will be belted all around while another will have a half belt. There are many snappy little changes in pockets, etc. One of the neatest is the envelope pocket. It is on the patch pocket effect but has a flap just like an envelope. Pockets generally are pleated. Coats are mostly three button with stubby lapels.

CHANGES FOR JUVENILES

Juvenile suits are coming steadily to the front with the Norfolk effect of the older boys. Many models are shown with lapels and three button effects. Some are, of course, showing models that button to the neck but these are in the minority. Middy and sailor blouse suits are still being shown extensively and they really are very nice looking and attractive in their unique trimmings. Large kimono sleeves help their attractiveness.

Knitted one piece suits for the wee little fellows are very popular and from the number merchants are showing and their attractiveness they should prove a season's sensation. Then too, Tommy Tuckers, Etons and Oliver Twists are very popular. There is but little change in the requirements for furnishings. The most noticeable is the strong trend toward the collar attached shirt in all ages.

MODERN COMFORT KEYNOTE IN NEW COTTON EXCHANGE

Skyscraper Erected On Hanover Square, New York, At
Cost Of $5,000,000

By Associated Press
New York — The latest thing in arenas was thrown open in July, when the New York Cotton
Exchange dedicates its new $5,000,- 000 skyscraper home down on Hanover Square, amid the financial warrens of lower Manhattan.

Away up on top of the exchange, beneath vaulted domes and delicately tinted mosaics, is a place for the bulls and bears to romp and roar in private pandemonium — the cotton trading pit. Just under the sky it is, with broad, high windows overlooking the four quarters of the globe whence come the cotton and the gold in which they deal.

The new exchange adjoins the old one, on the little triangular park fronted by one and two-story buildings behind antique lamp posts, where traders still conduct the commercial enterprises on which their forebears embarked when New York began to be talked of as a coming mart of commerce.

The first 18 floors of the structure are sprinkled with the offices of 400 resident members, telegraph, cable and telephone agencies, and ticker service bureaus. A battery of speedy elevators, with red and green light signal systems like those of a train despatcher's board, shuttle between floors, stopping only at top and bottom during the rush hours when the pit is opening and closing.

The pit is where the trader spends his time and makes his money, where the rise and fall of his fortunes are accompanied by the frenzied hullaloo of jostling, perspiring humanity, shouts and gestures of "buy" or
"sell," every signal echoed by clat-tering telegraph instruments. So the exchange has lavished much money on this pit, embodying in it all the arts and conveniences that might help make it endurable.

High overhead is an immense arch of plate glass, reinforced with wire mesh and embedded in soft metals to absorb severe shocks, such as explosions or violent thunders. Marble and plaster arabesques decorate the walls. In each of the four corners, on broad panels, a famous artist and crew of helpers painted birds-eye scenes of the four distant cotton markets—New Orleans, Liverpool,
Alexandria and Bombay.

These interiors are intended to give an impression of solid panoram, of a piece with the view of New York Harbor from the exchange floor.
Surrounding the pit were, batteries of telephones and tickers, huge score boards over which nimble clerks scramble chalking figures, and terminals of the 50,000 miles of cables with which the building is connected.

The pit itself is of a specially mined porous rock, durable yet sound-absorbing. From it rise circular stairs, the risers only five inches high, so the trader won't have to lift his eyes too far to catch the signal of the man on the other side who has singled him out for a deal.
Beneath the steps around the circumference of the arena are vacuum ventilators, to keep the air as cool and fresh as is possible in a cotton pit.

Everything about the building is calculated to give the impression of permanence and solidity. And there are accommodations for enough messengers and barbers, waiters and hat boys, so the broker needs not devote the minimum of attention to his person while the pit is open.

CHINESE RUG INDUSTRY SUFFERS HEAVY LOSSES

By Associated Press
Tientsin — The unprecedented boom in the rug-making industry in China, which followed interruption of the Turkish and Persian line during the war, has suffered a severe check.

Out of 500 factories which were built in Tientsin during the first years of the war, developing a daily output of more than 10,000 square inches, fewer than 300 have survived a renewal of competition. During the hey-day of the industry prices soared from $1.50 and $1.50 per square foot to $3.00 and $4.00. About one-fourth of the output was consumed domestically and of the rest
America took the bulk.

The slump is attributed largely to inferiority of the product under the enormously increased demand, due to inferior wool, unskillful dyeing and inexperienced workmanship.

GERMAN GLIDER WEIGHING 30 POUNDS. SUCCESSFUL

By Associated Press
Berlin — A German inventor has in some way a parachute, which weighs only 30 pounds and can be folded up and easily carried. He has made two successful flights in the outskirts of Berlin.

NEW ENGLISH FLYING BOAT WEIGHS 9 TONS

By Associated Press

power engines, weighs 9 tons in flying trim, and has an estimated speed of 110 miles an hour.

INQUEST FOR MONEY

to hide it. As a result he may get a grant of 16 pounds by the govern-

Luxuriously Lovely Are The New Furs

Furs, furs and still more furs—and their great popularity is not to be wondered at when you realize how extremely becoming they are. The wonderful scene of luxury and well being they give the wearer, the utterly charming effect of softly flattering furs gathered close to the throat—surely no other garment lends quite such fascination. And never were furs more richly beautiful and luxurious than the exquisite new models which are being shown for this winter. Each year furriers seem to gain greater ability in fashioning garments of exquisite beauty and in finding intricate and unusual ways of combining the skins to achieve new effects of charm. And certainly this year is no exception.

Perhaps one reason for the great popularity of the fur coat is that every woman looks so attractive and feels so cozy comfortable when she is close wrapped in her furs and ready to meet the blustering winds of winter.

THE LONG COAT

If you choose to meet the winter cold in a long fur coat, you will be quite at the height of fashion for the long fur coat is a great favorite this winter. And of course, with your exquisite afternoon frocks or for any sort of an evening affair, the long coat is the only one which may be worn. But if long, it must be very, very long. The new long coats come right to the ankle so that by no chance will your dress show beneath them. And they are much more attractive so, for one or two inches of your dress showing beneath a coat spoils the silhouette and ruins the whole effect.

This year the long coat carefully preserves the straightest of silhouettes. No belt or girdle of any kind is worn to break the straight, slender line from shoulder to ankle. The back and front are as straight and flat as they possibly can be made. If there is any fullness at all in these coats it is introduced by means of a flare at each side. They are worn closely wrapped about the hips and yet with a sort of carefree grace. As one woman cleverly said, "to wear the new straight coats with any degree of style, you must slip into them and wear them as carelessly as you would a peignoir."

The flowing bishop sleeve, the most graceful of all sleeves for a fur coat, is worn almost without exception. But to be really warm and comfortable, there must be a little inner sleeve of silk attached to the lining at the elbow and gathered close about the wrist on an elastic.

Every woman will be glad that the chin chin collar is the smartest of all. It is so cozy comfortable to have a collar which buttons right up to the chin. And, of course, it is ever so much more becoming.

A very interesting note observed in many of the new coats is the unusual ways in which the skins are used. Some coats are made to look as though they had bias bands by setting the skins in, in the opposite way.

THE NEW FUR CAPES

Capes are also great favorites in the winter fur mode. And surely there is nothing more attractive for afternoon and evening wear than a luxuriously beautiful fur cape. However, the silhouette of the cape makes not the slightest attempt to follow that of the long coat. The capes are cut to fit very snugly about the shoulders. Then there is a decided circular flare, some times from the elbow to the bottom of the cape, while at other times the cape is straight to the knees with a circular ruffle at the bottom. In fact it is in these capes with their circular flares and tight shoulders that the tendency toward the styles of eighteen eighty is shown more than in any of the other fur garments of the season.

The cape does not have a chin chin collar but it does follow the fashion for the high collar in a rolling collar which comes high in the back of the neck, over the ears and crosses almost at the point of the chin.

For the long coat and capes almost any fur is good. But among the most popular are, Kolinsky, Alaska Seal, Hudson Seal, Natural Squirrel, Viatica Squirrel, Kolinsky Dyed Squirrel, Mink, tan, gun metal, black and grey caracul. For trimming many a smart combination and contrast can be gained by the use of Viatica Squirrel, Kolinsky, Black Fox, Taupe Fox and Grey Fox.

EVENING CAPES

For the woman who is able to have a fur evening wrap there are perfectly exquisite creations. You can imagine how lovely soft white ermine or white coney would be modeled into one of these stunning capes. And the delicate linings of softly gathered georgette over bright silks are the most exquisite you could imagine.

For daytime wear, as well as for sports wear, the short fur coat is quite the smartest. There is something so youthful and jaunty about them; that their great popularity is not in the least surprising. One very smart style for these coats is to have them cut very straight and rather short. Worn with a smart skirt or frock they make a perfectly stunning daytime costume.

Other models of these short coats are slightly gathered into a tight band about the hips. Sometimes this band is fastened by a stunning buckle at the left side front. The flowing bishop sleeve and the chin chin collar is also found on these shorter coats. Quite the newest fur for these coats is gun metal caracul trimmed with Viatica squirrel. You can imagine what a perfectly stunning street costume it would make worn with a smart frock or skirt. Another fascinating combination is white ermine or white coney jacquette worn with a black velvet skirt.

Among other furs which are particularly good for the short coat are tan, black or grey caracul, summer ermine, natural squirrel, Hudson seal, Alaska seal, Viatica squirrel, Kolinsky dyed squirrel and mink. And the trimmings for these coats are Viatica squirrel, Kolinsky, black, taupe and grey fox are very good.

For late fall when it is still possible to wear a tailored street frock without a wrap, the fox scarf is quite the smartest and beige, taupe, red and grey fox vie with each other for popularity.

THE WINTER COAT

First, last and always, the winter coat is long. No matter what other claims to smartness it may have, if it is nothing it is not in the mode. In fact, all the winter coats come right to the ankles so that by no possibility may a dress show beneath them. The long slim silhouette is quite the thing for winter. These coats frequently tie or buckle on the side as the coat dress does, but they are never seen with a belt or girdle. The bias folds from the neckline down to the bottom of the coat, which ever so slightly break the straightness of the silhouette, are seen on many of the smart new models.

The coat sleeve is usually a long bell sleeve but at times there are graceful capes over either arm. However, this cape is never allowed to break the straightness of the back. The high fur collar and deep fur cuffs add to the winter time charm and comfort.

AUTUMN OPENING

THERE'S something to conjure with at this time of the year, for perhaps at no other season is a woman's style interest more keenly aroused — in the new colors, the new fabrics, the new silhouettes. And early in the season we have been fortunate enough to gather here for an authentic exposition, interpretations that tell the trend of a new mode in alluring details of godets, tiers, plaids and shiny fabrics. Suits, frocks, coats, wraps and gowns are assembled for your inspection. We invite you to see them.

The Fur Coat presents many a New and Smart Idea

The Fur Coat, whether it be quite long or short, is taking many an honor for its supreme smartness here. You will find these Coats extremely flattering, very smart. Short box Coats of leopardskin, collared in red squirrel, caracul Coats, long muskrat and raccoon Coats—these are only a hint of our large display of Fur Coats. Besides maximum style they radiate perfection in pelts and workmanship.

Fall Millinery Opening

The new Fall hats have arrived! Felts have had their sway; fabric hats have had their day, and now adaptations of new Autumnal season are here to intrigue Madame and Mademoiselle. And you're sure to be fascinated by them. Shiny ribbons, brocaded fabrics, many feathers, to say nothing of the new tall crown effects and quirky turns of brim are but a few of the outstanding details of new Fall millinery modes. The Exposition covers everything from children's hats to Sports hats, so don't fail to come early!

Fall Coats and Wraps Take to Slender Ways

The most arresting styles in Coats and Wraps this season show slender silhouettes of a wrap-around type—most flattering lines in which to envelop feminine grace. And there are so many ways to gain fullness and individuality, so many new tricks of flare and godet, circular flounce and cape effect that an early inspection, if nothing more, will intrigue Milady. The displays are early, to be sure, but our garments have been carefully chosen and represent authentic Fall fashionings in every instance.

Few Changes Mark Men's Footwear

By Harold A. Sampson

Generally speaking the styles that men and young men wore in footwear last fall and winter will again be shown this year. While styles underwent radical changes in women's footwear during the last twelve months man apparently is content to have what he has and let well enough alone.

Then, too, manufacturers haven't been confronted with so many angles which make the changing of women's footwear so necessary. The styles of 1922 no doubt, went over big and the makers say no reason for revising the schedule of models.

OXFORDS WORN MORE

One of the most important changes that will be seen through the fall and winter months will be the increased wearing of oxfords. The vogue which originated with Milady is now taking Mr. Man by storm and the result is a large decrease in the sale of high shoes and an equally large increase in the wearing of low shoes.

Whether this vogue will continue indefinitely is quite uncertain, but some designers believe the peak will be reached in a few years, then there will be a gradual return to high shoes.

Among foot specialists the date of the restoration of high footwear may come sooner than the experts anticipate, due to the fact that some men are careless in the wearing of oxfords. For example in extremely cold weather the necessary precautions aren't taken to guard against the severity of the season and as a result sickness develops.

While it seems as if nature has provided better protection for the supposedly weaker sex in regards to the wearing of low shoes, man hasn't become acclimated as yet. He must wear spats with his oxfords if he wants the maximum winter comfort.

To Be Fashionably Shod

It hardly seems possible, when we look back just a few years, to think that the plain oxford and pump formed such an important part of the foot wear fashions of the well dressed woman. For now elaboration is still more elaboration is the keynote of footwear smartness.

This season there will be a showing of fawn, tan, peal and beige for dress occasions, while the dark grays, browns and blacks will be worn during the day.

NO UNNATURAL LASTS

The pointed toe and unnatural lasts will not be shown to any degree. This is largely due to the fact that man prefers comfort—particularly the man approaching the mature stage of life. The younger fellows still cling to the English or custom lasts, but even these afford sufficient toe room for the desired comfort.

The brogue will continue in favor, among oxfords but will also find its

STRAPS ARE THE THING

The strap slipper is quite the most popular of all. Straps of every kind and description are seen—some extending way up to the ankle in such narrow bands that they resemble narrow ribbons. Frequently lattice work is seen in the sides of the slipper or in the front coming up the instep. In fact, the more unusual the strap, the smarter the slipper. Sometimes these straps are fastened with tiny buckles. In the satin slippers they are very apt to have a button which may be covered if you so desire, with a slide buckle of pearls or rhinestones. These buckles add greatly to the smart elaboration of the dresser slipper.

Patent leather is so attractively trim and smart that it is admirably suited for street wear with the smart talleur. However, suede or suede trimmed with patent or dull leather is to be seen in the foremost ranks of the footwear fashions. In these suede shoes great ingenuity is shown in the countless fascinating ways in which the contrasting leather is introduced. Sometimes slashes in the suede show the contrasting leather, or it may be put on in lattice work or as a more conventional edging. Certainly never before did the shoe designers have such an opportunity to exercise a fertile imagination as that which they must use at present if their shoes are to attain any degree of popularity and smartness in the eyes of the well dressed woman.

With the contrast of leather a contrast of color is apt to be introduced. Sometimes this contrast is given by a darker self ton or if Milady prefers something more unusual, vivid flashes of red, green or blue leather may be found giving life and color to a shoe of otherwise sombre tone. The great popularity of browns and tans extends to our footwear so countless shades of brown, tan, and camel are seen in the newer footwear modes. However, with the afternoon frock, if it is black, black satin strap slippers are just the thing.

For evening wear the gold or silver slipper is always correct, but one who wishes to introduce more originality into her costume will choose some of the gorgeously brocaded slippers or even satin ones. However, the latest thing is to have the colors of these slippers a contrast to the shade of the gown rather than harmonizing with it.

THE SPORTS SHOE

Very good for sports wear is the low heeled suede slipper trimmed with a contrasting leather. But for the more energetic sports, the practical low-heeled, mannish oxford is just the thing.

With the black slippers, unless you wish to achieve an entirely black costume, the light hose are generally worn. And so many and attractive are the new shades in fall hosiery, that accessory. And, indeed, against the grey tones Moonlight, Babbling Brook, Pilgrim and Cut Steel are the newest, while the most recent flesh tints are Blush, Rachelle and Star Dust. Then there are the fascinating Sunbeam tints which include Lapin, Gateau, Freckles, Novelty, Dawn, Sunset and Parchment.

VICTROLAS

After the hot summer months, how welcome the smart darker modes of fall are! And what a relief it is to see them after the riot of summer's colors. In a clever new tailored frock and a smart little toque every woman feels that she is at least on her way to meet the gaudies of a new winter season. Blue serge is returning once more to the height of fashion. Of course every American woman will be glad to hear that, for even though blue serge may fall temporarily in the estimation of the smart Parisienne, the well-dressed American woman never lets it get out of fashion. And wise she is, too, for blue serge is so youthful and trimly becoming; and there are occasions when a blue serge frock seems to be the only thing quite suitable to wear.

COAT DRESSES ARE GOOD
And when fashion develops the ever-useful coat dress in blue serge, the result is a frock which is perfectly stunning as well as suitable for almost every day time occasion. The silhouette of these street frocks is usually very straight and slender. Sometimes there is no belt or girdle of any sort, but the dress is just fastened at the side with a small self bow on an elaborate buckle.

Some very attractive models have a pleated flare of printed silk introduced down the skirt where it closes at the side front. This not only gives a very welcome touch of color but it is very practical for comfort in walking. Another new treatment of the coat frock is to have bias bands running straight around the skirt. Sometimes there are only two or three very wide bands used to give a three tiered effect. On others, one sees these bands very narrow and overlapping from the low waist line to the bottom of the skirt. This gives a little break to the straight silhouette, without actually departing from it.

LINGERIE COLLARS AND CUFFS
Lingerie collars and cuffs have returned to the mode—especially for these coat dresses. On the more tailored models one is very apt to see the severe smartness of a white pique collar and cuff either turned down over the hand to the knuckles or turned back gauntlet fashion. It is really too bad that white pique ever goes out of fashion because it is supremely becoming to almost every type. So smartly trim and immaculate its spotless whiteness always seems to make the complexion more fresh and youthful. So now that it is so popular, the wise woman will make good use of her opportunity and wear it while she may. Linen and organdie collars and chemisettes are also worn with smartness. However, collars and cuffs are all made very simple and without elaboration.

And now satin has gained great headway over the flat crepe and crepe de chine for the smart, new afternoon frock. And running it a very close second is moire silk.

LOOKING BACK TO 1880
The silhouette of the afternoon frock allows itself greater liberties with the fashion and makes no attempt to follow slavishly the straight lines of the coat frock. The long waist and soft straight skirt, which we have worn so becomingly for several seasons, are very good—but to bring them up to the moment, pleated or circular ruffles and bias bands must be used to make them a bit more fashionably decorative.

And it is in the use of the ruffles skirt. Very popular also is the three tiered skirt—sometimes of pleated ruffles, at others of wide bias bands. These bias bands which are so popular in the more tailored mode are used for the afternoon frocks as well. One charming model had three bias bands across the front and back which fell to the ground in points on one side. Sometimes these 1880 styles are followed by putting these bands lower in the front than in the back.

One model which follows more closely the mode of 1880 has an extremely long waist heavily embroidered. This waist has buttons down the back and a large bow. The skirt consists of two full pleated ruffles.

However, this 1880 movement is, so far, only a tendency. Whether it will grow until it invades the realm of the tailor is very uncertain. And though many a new and smart afternoon frock is designed on straighter lines, certainly the 1880 influence is quite the strongest.

PLEATS ARE GOOD
Pleats and still more pleats are quite the vogue. Frequently one sees a charming frock, which is pleated right from the neck to the hemline. And pleats are found in the ruffles of a frock as well as in the silk insert of a coat frock. In fact, everything that can be pleated, is pleated.

Of course, the long tight sleeve, or the long, rather snug bell sleeve is the thing for the tailor. But for afternoon frocks, the sleeve may be a very short cap or else there is no sleeve at all.

THE HOSTESS GOWN
The hostess gown or the tea gown as it is frequently called is quite the appropriate thing for tea or for an informal dinner at home. And this season soft velvets beautifully draped and sometimes fur trimmed are quite the most fashionable. And the slender yet flowing lines of these gowns give a graceful dignity which is wholly charming. And it is in these gowns that a woman can really study her type and evolve a creation best suited to it, for they do not follow the mode as closely as the more formal dress.

Of course when cold winds are howling at our windows, a warm negligee is quite a welcome if not an absolutely necessary part of our wardrobe. For just such times as this the negligee of quilted silk is quite the most comfortably cozy of all garments. And they are particularly becoming when their simplicity is relieved by a dainty lace collar.

To delightfully dainty negligees of chiffon or triple voile follow the modish silhouette and have a flat straight back with any fullness gathered in the front, sometimes accentuated by a huge flat bow.

When Winter Comes to the Home Decorator

By
Marjorie Howe Dixon

The first chill days of autumn send us scurrying to build a fire in the fireplace, there to toast our fingers and our toes. And with the change from warm to cool days, and the necessity of staying indoors, a renewed interest in home decoration is awakened. In summer simplicity is the appropriate keynote. One wants coolness and restfulness so as to forget the heat. But fall brings again the annual fierce desire in the breast of the housewife to clean house, and an entire upheaval follows. And a healthy thing it is too, to change all the furniture about, plan new schemes and decorations, discard some bits of old and replace with new. Perhaps several chairs need recovering. In selecting a color scheme, one can start with the rug, a more or less fixed factor and use colors from it. One room started with a tan rug, softly dull with a small pattern in it. So the overstuffed chairs were covered to match with a striped pattern in mulberry and taupe. Two great comfy wicker chairs, toned into the color scheme by painting themselves in mulberry. Especially attractive in this room were several good copies of antiques. A bookcase with the old broken arch top reminding one of a secretary was the first of these and a charming old high boy with the same top was the second. It had the loveliest old brass drawer pulls. A third antique stood in a corner by a window. It was an old desk, one of those capacious affairs, with drawers clear to the floor.

WINDOW TRIMMINGS And as for the windows, that had its very own type of treatment. Scrim glass curtains let in plenty of light, while the window was framed by black glazed chintz curtains ruffled on the edges. Gay flowers romped over the black ground. The full effect of the room was both quaint and delightful. Some of us would like this room and others would enjoy another, more exotic, keyed to a vigorous note, and playing with patterns. It must have been the gay red frames of two or three Japanese prints that started the ball rolling. Red lacquer furniture followed as a natural sequence and covered its cushions with linen colored glazed chintz. A round table collected books and a lamp and placed them gracefully on a linen runner embroidered somewhere "East of Suez." I am sure. And not for a minute could one forget the background. The gayest of flowers grew from spiral trees all over the walls, with brilliant birds aflutter in the midst. So runneth the legend of one of the new wall papers. Ecru scrim filled the windows with over drapes of striped taffeta tied high. Since no home is now complete without books and plenty of them, all sorts of interesting arrangements for shelves are being used. For the smaller living rooms, hanging book shelves make decorative spots, there being no end of the possibilities of these, both in shade and color. FIREPLACE BOOK CASES Where a fireplace stands forth from the wall, an excellent opportunity for built in shelves is offered, either side. Some fit into the room nicely with a horizontal line at the top, while others with an arch add to grace of line. Not that one must have a fireplace, oh—built in book shelves may occur almost any place you like. A window seat may be a low case for books while a window nook may be lined up and down with shelves. Now, instead of hanging over a console table, many a handsome mirror hangs above a book case. With all the variety in line and finish in mirrors the home decorator has abundant opportunity to display her skill in combining beautiful mirrors with stately book cases. Among other incidents in our new, old modern homes is a revival of the old coffee table. Antiques and good copies of them may be found with their sturdy legs and uncompromising attitude. But that is all very well. One doesn't care to spill a good cup of coffee. Coffee reminds us of dining rooms, at least of eating rooms, and especially breakfast. The breakfast room now has its own treatment joyous in brightly painted pieces. There, surely, is the exact spot for gate legged tables to combine themselves with Windsor chairs. What more delicious grouping could be arranged than these, all painted Robin's egg blue with a line of pink set in the morning sunlight? Especially when hand blocked linen curtains the windows, hung from painted rings, and the whole stands on a checkerboard tile floor, what could more tempt the morning appetite? A TASTY BREAKFAST ROOM A sort of transition between the breakfast room and the dining room resulted from painting a good looking set dull blue. All the pieces were there, side board, server and buffet, just like a regular set only somewhat "dolled up" a bit with paint. The bare table made an excellent background for Wedgewood china in cream white. And as it to snatch a bit of color from the china, the roller shade curtains matched nicely in bright cretonne. For an unusual dining room, one finds among the newer sets, paint skillfully used with the natural wood finish. Each chair back had an oval painted dully and softly with a flower group in an antique finish. The large doors of the china cabinet continued the use of painted bouquets in unobtrusive tones, on its walnut surface. A separate mirror hung over the buffet. The bare table wore squares of Italian linen and was set with Strasburg china. It is for that matter a puzzle now to know whether the china furnished the original keynote to the room or the furniture compelled with use of certain china. At any rate there is a beautiful opportunity for nice distinctions in the choice of these combinations. Did you say color? Maybe not, but then you couldn't have been thinking of the nursery, unless you thought of gay colors. In the days when a sturdy young man of three triumphantly wears a necklace of bright wooden beads, he has strung for himself, there must be answering colors in his room. It must have been those very beads that inspired the decorator of one child's set. The cabinet legs, the legs to the bureau and the chair legs were all carved in rounds like beads and each round painted a different vivid color. Above the tops and backs and so on, blossomed out in lemon yellow, with a narrow line of pink. A coral pink it was and the drapes drew their note from it and festively hung over the scrim glass curtains long lines of gingham, in pattern, a large checkerboard of coral and white. Each valance of the bedspread repeated the gingham. VARIOUS BEDROOM TREATMENTS Bedrooms like living rooms are an expression of one's temperament. There one finds arrangements all the way from the elaborate down to the severely simple. A cozy cottage bedroom with its slanted ceiling demands its own treatment in small pieces and tiny figured wall paper. While a great room with a twelve foot ceiling has to have a certain majesty in its drapes, in its dignified furniture. The moderately sized bedroom allows for the greatest play of one's choice and is by far the easiest of the three to arrange. For the small bed room the American Colonial is appropriate. Rag rugs, quaint old chairs, or a small rocker, a draped dressing table in dotted swiss, and a four poster bed with a blue and white woven spread, these make a dainty and charming room. The dear old American Colonial, its chairs have a way of fitting in anywhere, where an extra chair is needed. PAINTED BEDROOM SETS Painted bed room sets in soft colors are still with us. The usual set combines a chifforobe, twin beds, a night table, a bureau, a dressing case, and a chaise longue. Then for spots of gay color, there are cushions, lamps placed for comfort and sometimes brilliant pictures. A set of this type adequately furnished one of the large bed rooms mentioned before. Its background was an ivory paneled wall, and its high arched windows held back drapes with a flower pattern flung back gracefully over gold tie-backs. And so the house is made ready for the winter months. To reflect homeliness, good cheer, hospitality. RETRIEVING OLD ANTIQUES Besides "new lamps for old" the present style is "new lamps from the old." Many a home keeper has recently made a raid upon her attic and retrieved her grandmother's Dresden oil burner has had it remade into a handsome electric lamp. Even an unused vase may serve a real purpose when mounted into a lamp. When you have such pieces mounted it is often quite possible to make an effective and decorative piece by using a teakwood stand for the base of the lamp. However, great care must be taken that the stand is strong enough to stand the weight and prevent the lamp from being easily upset. It is usually better to spend a little more money, and have a lead base lacquered black for one of the cheaper vases, or a gold-plated brass mounting for some treasured piece of Sevres or Royal Doulton. For shading purposes glass has long been used although for some few years it has been rather unpopular because the manufacturers have not kept in step with the changing taste of our modern life. There have been, however, some very interesting models developed, which are now on the market, that are equally as attractive as anything among the silk shades. Softness of color and refinement in design are their characteristics. Parchment paper is still used especially for summer homes and sun porches or parlors. The newest type is a shade made of paper mache. It has a hard smooth surface, looks something like the glass shades in shape and design but it will not crush and can be washed.

Now Comes Autumn and with it come thoughts of new things for the home —of replacing old, worn out furniture you have meant to discard for years. Vacations are over; you will be entertaining again: you will want your home to look its best.

We have a great many interesting new designs—not only in matched suites, but in single pieces of real distinction at popular prices. Good furniture makes the character as well as the comfort of the home—and lasts as long as the home itself. It is the only kind to buy—and the only kind you CAN buy here.

Bedroom Furniture Takes A Touch of Color

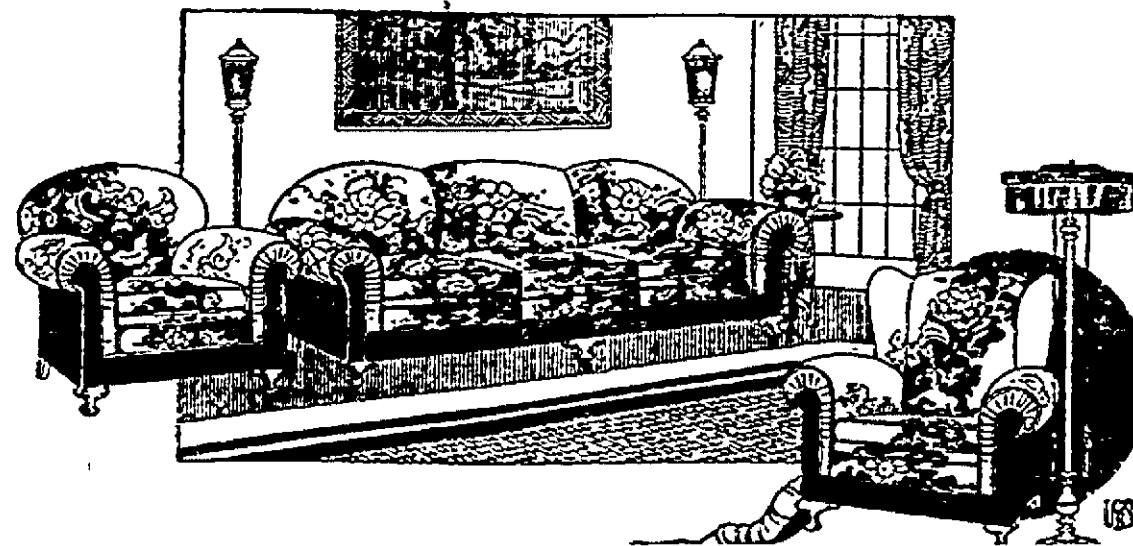

Rather lightsome these days is the furniture for one's bedroom—and while the furniture is designed with rugged grace, it takes well to a bit of contrast. Two shades of woods—ivory enamel with painted flowers—walnut with dull wood. And the effect is enchanting — different — individual. We would like to show you some of their new ideas in line and combination.

Meals Are Doubly Relished Amid Beautiful Surroundings

Tasteful dining room furniture does much to add to the enjoyment of meals. And the dining room furniture you select here possesses the advantage of costing comparatively little, so that one's pleasure in it is not dimmed by its price. For inspiration, it seeks the Italian, the Renaissance, Elizabethan and Jacobean eras. And each line boasts classic grace and modern simplicity. Are you certain your dining room can't use new furniture?

Exquisite New Lingerie

It is in her love of exquisite lingerie that a woman shows her truly feminine appreciation of dainty, fragile looking garments. And the glorious displays which are to be found in the shops this fall cannot help but heighten that interest.
The new step in combinations follow the fashion of the frock and are longer waisted than before. They have no fullness above the waistline and while not actually fitted, they are worn plain with no shirring at the top. The only fullness below the waist is introduced by means of narrow pleats on either hip. The trimming may be a medallion or a flat band of Fillet or Irish crochet. Often times exquisite little silken flowers add to the charm of these garments.

A NEW BODICE
So many women wear silk knickers in winter nowadays. And each one who does, realizes how the camisole and knickers never seem to meet at the waist line but always leave two bands of elastic about an inch apart. So a novel bodice has been designed to obviate this. This bodice is semi-fitted of double crepe de chine or heavy lace over crepe de chine. As this bodice extends two or three inches below the waist, it completely covers the elastic top of the knickers and gives a smooth fitted line at the waist. These bodices are only suited to the slender figure. But she who is slender needs no brassiere with them.

The vest chemise and matching step in is another favorite type of undergarment for the fastidious woman and this season they are more exquisite than ever with fine laces and embroideries.

SASHES FOR NIGHTGOWNS
Even the nightgowns have sashes now, to emphasize the long waist line. The nightgown itself is cut on long, straight lines with the fullness concentrated in tiny pleats which fall from the shoulder on either side. Then a sash of ribbon about an inch wide is tied about the hips with rather long loops and ends which almost reach the floor.
The "V" neck is a great favorite for this fall. And to most women it is quite the most becoming neckline of all. The bateau neckline is also in high favor, but the newer gowns with this type of neck are made to fit down closely over the shoulder.
Every woman remembers how becoming the caps were which she wore for Red Cross work during the war. So now the smart woman for negligee wear, chooses a cap of heavy lace worn just as the Red Cross cap was worn. Other becoming caps are made almost like a bonnet with a frill of lace falling gracefully at the back of the neck.

TO COMPLETE YOUR COSTUME

By MURIEL MERTENS
Sometimes it seems as though the whole problem of the smartly dressed woman lay in choosing just the right effective background of a well cut frock, one's personality may be beautifully expressed in smartly tasteful little accessories. And fortunately they are unusually lovely this year.
Ear rings are worn more than ever this season. And they are larger than ever—if that sounds possible to you. Cut steel, all the gloriously colored semi-precious stones, intricately carved gold, shower ear rings with a tiny pearl on the end of each of many fine, short gold chains, plain pearl drops or elaborate wide ear rings—all are good. The only rule seems to be that ear rings of some sort or another you must wear if you would be smart. And the wise woman follows only one guide in choosing her ear rings—becomingness.
And the bracelets! There is nothing unusual in seeing a slender, pretty arm with from ten to twenty of them. And they are so attractive with the sleeveless frocks. Again, as in ear rings, all types are good from the ones. But quite the most popular are the thick rounded circlelets which are worn in all imaginable colors as well as carved ivory. Quite popular, too, are little tinkling bracelets of gaily colored glass.

FOR THE HAIR
It is seldom, nowadays that one sees an unornamented coiffure, especially in the evening. For those who find smooth hair, dressed close to the head, becoming, there are stunning Spanish combs. Some are of solid bright colors while others are of shell set with brilliants. But this season one comb, no matter how large, is not considered enough. A pair of them are worn as a rule. They are always put in exactly opposite each other. These combs are frequently set straight across the back of the head, but, if it is more becoming, one is worn a little higher than the other.

You will find the balanced effect of these combs utterly charming.
The ever becoming bandeau is still a great favorite. And perhaps one reason for its continued popularity is that it holds the hair just in place during an entire evening of dancing so that the ideal of the fastidious woman may be realized—to leave a party looking just as attractively trim as when she arrived. Gold or silver ribbon, often flower trimmed, is very popular for these bandeaux, but quite as often one sees bandeaux of white or colored crepe de chine to match the frock.
CHAINS AND MORE CHAINS
Of course, many and varied are the chains and necklaces of colored stones which are seen this fall. And while the "choker" necklaces of large stones worn close about the throat is quite the newest, it has by no means dimmed the popularity of the longer chain which is so attractive with the simple long waisted blouse of today. When the chains and ear rings match and the bracelets harmonize, a truly stunning effect can be gained.

The gauntlet glove is quite at the height of the fall mode whether it is worn with a suit or a sleeveless afternoon frock. But this year the wide cuff is turned down over the wrist to show the gay decorations which are to be found on the inside of the cuffs of the newer gauntlets. In fact the attempt to make the glove meet the short sleeve of a frock has been given up as hopeless, so even when long gloves are worn they are seen crushed and wrinkled on the arm and coming only half way to the elbow.
And the gaily colored, tiny chiffon handkerchiefs are still with us—in fact they might be said to be just coming into their own. And how fascinating it is to see these gay bits of color peeping from the tiny pocket of a frock or fastened to a slim wrist. They give a woman such an opportunity to show her ingenuity in clever color combinations. And what a charm of sophistication they lend the costume.

The Crowning touch of Charm

by Muriel Mortens

A becoming new hat—what a world of fascination there is in just the thought of it for any woman. No matter how old her frock, with a charming new hat which she knows is utterly becoming, a woman is ready and willing to face the world.

And how lovely the new hats are. While there are general rather definite style tendencies, still the range of styles is broad enough that you may choose a hat which is quite the best suited for your type.

Of course, the small hat is a great favorite for winter. The whole effect is so chic when one sees a jaunty little hat poised above a huge fur collar and ready to meet the winter quite untroubled by blustering winds. And the small hats of this winter offer such a wide selection both in style and material for your most particular choice.

The toque, whether it be of velvet or felt or duvetyne, is very popular. Some of these toques are unbelievably small giving the appearance of a handkerchief bound closely about the head and fastened with a fantastical rhinestone pin. These tight little toques are generally seen in a solid color—preferably black, which shows off the gleaming pin to such advantage.

However, if you find it more becoming, you will be quite as much in fashion if you choose a more softly draped velvet toque trimmed with the brightest embroideries.

AND MORE SMALL HATS
Another, and perhaps even more popular version of the small hat is one with a tiny brim which is sometimes seen turned up a little in front and at others turned sharply down like a poke bonnet. If one chooses one of these little hats in felt, it may well achieve great smartness by having a coque feather wending its way down from the brim over the fair wearer's shoulder. There is a certain jauntyness about coque which no other feather can copy. That is why they have such swagger charms when they are worn with a tailored frock or suit.

A very clever new way is to combine coque with a few strands of ostrich.

If you choose to have your small hat of velvet or duvetyne, the feather trimming is apt to be more elaborate. They may be graceful ostrich feathers which sweep down from the brim over the shoulder. Quite as often however, the feathers are found right at the front of the crown. But you will be very smart if you choose to have at the side of your hat a feather ornament which closely resembles the wise old owl.

Now and then a square crown is seen on the more strictly tailored hat but almost invariably the modish hat has a cone shape or, at any rate, a rounded crown.

The woman who really dresses well is the one who knows the value of having hat, shoes, gloves and frock each a part of a harmonious whole. In fact, that is the main, perhaps the only, secret of smartness. So whatever colors we may say are good, the only way to buy a hat is to choose it with the thought of the frock or frocks with which you intend to wear it, well in mind. And right here lies the value of choosing a becoming color and wearing it in all your frocks throughout the season. Unless your expenditure is unlimited, it is the only way in which you can be quite sure that whatever you wear, all your accessories will be just the thing for it. However, the most popular colors for fall are on the brown tones. That is, every color from brown, fawn, champagne and tan to the brightest of orange. Black is always good and this fall it is an especial favorite. American Beauty is such a warm becoming shade that it is often chosen by the woman who wears dark furs. The larger hat adds such picturesque loveliness to charming afternoon frocks. So if it is becoming, it is well to have at least one of them in your winter wardrobe. The large hats this year have a very short brim in the back. It gives them so much more style and, of course, makes them much more comfortable with the fur scarf or high fur collar.

Sometimes these hats are trimmed with softly draped Spanish lace which lends such fascination when it falls a few inches over the brim. Now and then one sees a long chiffon veil caught on the side of the crown with a lovely buckle and falling gracefully over the shoulder. But quite as often as not these hats are trimmed with graceful feathers which either fall from brim or are gathered at the front of the crown.

Simplicity Still Rules in Men's Clothing

By John Magee

(Models shown by courtesy The House of Kuppenheimer and the Hub, Chicago.)

There will be no decided style departures in men's clothes this fall and winter. Simplicity and conservatism still rule supreme. While some of the fashions may be a bit austere, there is a tendency to break away from them.

Novelties, outside of those usually found in sport clothes, will be seen very little during the coming months particularly in apparel for the well-dressed man. The jazz and rah rah models of the past two years are gradually becoming extinct, and once more the pendulum swings back to the plain and more dignified styles.

ENGLISH INFLUENCE NOTED
The three-button coat will be emphasized. This coat is of loose fitting proportions, with low gorge, notch lapels, no flare and fitted snugly over the hips, with no vent in the back.

Whatever tendency toward extreme-ness is developed in the new English cut suits which will be worn more by the younger fellows than the more mature men. These will favor the soft roll front coats, with very wide lapels, broad shoulders, lower pockets.

The front of the coat will be rounded off at the bottom.

Loose raglan effects and the large English type of ulsters are expected to share the limelight in the overcoat field this fall and winter. While-tailors were prominent last season, the tendency is to break away from this particular style, although there will be some half-belters.

CONVERTIBLE COLLARS
Many of the overcoats will have convertible collars and patch pockets some will show plain backs and others will have yokes and inverted plaits.

Among the coats that won a place in clothing last year and will continue in good taste this year is a forty-four inch garment, with regular shoulders, small self collar and lapel. The sleeves are plain; there are three patch pockets and they have button through or fly fronts. Such coats will be worn extensively by the younger fellows, the smart business man and college man, who will substitute an angora muffler for a storm collar.

Among the styles the double-breasted appears to be most favored, but some of the better makers are showing smart, dapper single-breasted garments. These will be shown in topcoats as well as overcoats.

OATS DEMAND CUT BY MOTOR VEHICLES

Washington — Production of oats in the United States probably has reached its highest point, in the opinion of experts of the Department of Agriculture.

The yearbook of the department for 1922 declares the advent of motorized trucking, both in city and country, and of the tractor on the farm, are reducing markedly the commercial demand for feeding oats.

The result, it is predicted, will be to reduce acreage and production, which have increased rapidly and consistently since annual estimates first became available in 1885. The oat crop now ranks third in importance, the cereals being next to corn and wheat.

The importance of barley, which ranks fourth among cereals in this country, is increasing even though production of it is not. The average annual production of barley for the ten years ended in 1922 was about 123,000,000 bushels. The future outlook for this crop is said to be encouraging.

Rye is listed as an unimportant crop in this country, but there has been an increase in production since 1912, due to an increased European demand which is expected to disappear later in large measure.

THIRD WOMAN SEEKS SEAT IN PARLIAMENT

London — English women are outdistancing their American sisters in political activity. Two of their number are members of the House of Commons, and a third is now seeking that honor.

Old-time English politicians expected something of a shock recently when they learned that Miss Mabel Russell, a musical comedy actress, had deserted the theatrical stage for the political arena, and had become an aspirant for a seat in the House of Commons.

Miss Russell, who has starred here in a number of American productions, has been put forward for a seat in the Commons with Lady Astor and Mrs. Winifred Ham by Conservative admirers in the Berwick district, which was held by Sir Edward Grey as a Liberal stronghold for a generation. Her constituents think Miss Russell's histrionic abilities, as well as her winning personality, will more than offset the oratorical and argumentative skill of Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Asquith and Ramsay MacDonald.

"I realize that my decision to run for parliament means hard exhaustive work," said Miss Russell. "But I am prepared for it. As a woman there are many things I can discuss which may seem insignificant to a man, such as the management of a home, the care of children, social problems, and other matters vital to the welfare of the nation."

Frederic J. Hockley, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., encloses herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the Orange and Lemon Booklet.

PULP PRODUCTION OF WISCONSIN IS LEADING COUNTRY

Ranks With Maine And New York—Total Production 5,548,842 Cords

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Wisconsin, Maine and New York are the three leading states in pulp wood production and consumption, the department of commerce announces. In 1922 these three states reported 56.8 per cent of the total consumption of pulp wood and 59.7 per cent of the total production of pulp wood.

The department announced that the total consumption of pulp wood was 5,548,842 cords by 241 mills in 1922 as against 4,557,178 cords by 254 mills in 1921. The consumption of wood in 1922 increased 21.8 per cent compared with the previous year, but decreased 9.2 per cent compared with the consumption for 1920, which year was the most active of record in the industry.

More than 54 per cent of the wood consumed in 1922 was spruce. Hemlock and yellow pine were next in importance, supplying 18.1 per cent and 8.7 per cent, respectively, of the total quantity of pulp wood used in that year.

The production of wood pulp was 5,521,644 short tons in 1922 compared with 2,875,601 tons in 1921. Of the total amount in 1922, 1,493,757 tons were produced by the mechanical process, 1,374,319 tons by the sulphite process, 419,557 tons by the soda process, and 243,681 tons by the sulphate process.

TOO THICK HEADED

London—An experiment was conducted at the zoo here to discover if the mere voice of a man could penetrate the consciousness of an elephant. By wireless an elephant was given commands by his favorite keeper, but paid no attention. When the keeper delivered the orders in person the animal obeyed without hesitation.

What the Younger Generation Will Wear

BY MURIEL MERTENS

To a certain extent, of course, the fashions for children are influenced by the modes which their elders follow. But the day when children simply wore in miniature the fashions of their parents, has not been consigned to the dark ages. And well may any child of today rejoice that her clothes follow fashions evolved for her and that simplicity, comfort and youthful becomingness are the keywords of these fashions.

Children are far more sensitive about their clothing than their parents sometimes realize, and a child who is simply and tastefully dressed in the youthful fashions which find favor among her playmates has learned the first and most important lesson in poise.

And the children's frocks for fall seem to have been designed with that very thought in mind, so charming, natural and graceful their lines.

While their elders are favoring the low waist line, the children's frocks have gone a step further and as a rule have no waist line at all, but hang straight from the shoulder. The wide pleated bertha collar is so unusually becoming to fresh youthful faces, and is frequently seen—especially on the frocks of softer materials.

BLUE SERGE POPULAR

Blue serge—ever smart and practical, is very popular for the little girl for school and play while her dressier frocks may be of printed silk or a soft color crepe de chine. Pleats are frequently used for these children's frocks either in the form of pleated collars or trimming frills or else the whole frock may be pleated. These pleats, so popular with grown up fashions, are particularly becoming to the growing angular ages.

When these younger children's frocks do have a girlish, it is generally a soft sash or a braided girdle tied loosely about the hips.

When she grows a bit older, the best school fashions for the young miss are sport clothes. A pleated wool skirt striped or checked with a plain high round neck blouse and a sweater is a great favorite with miss ten to sixteen. Her frocks, too, follow the simple, straight lines of the sports frocks, with a note of interest added in the narrow belt placed low about her hips.

Printed silk, crepe de chine and velvet are very popular for the afternoon frock of the young miss. The pleats and bias bands seen just now are very becoming to her at the age where arms and legs seem awkwardly in the way.

HIS HOLIDAY

Leamington, Eng.—"Cheerio, I am off for my holiday," was the last message written by Dr. Lancelot Craven Wilkinson, 43, before he killed himself, taking gas.

IT PAYS TO SING

Bristol, Eng.—Joseph Leopold Roedel, professor of music, composer of many songs who died in France recently, left an estate valued at about $45,000.

RAIN MADE STATE FAIR LOSE MONEY

Madison—The Wisconsin state fair was a monetary loss to the extent of $59,763.06, according to figures that have just been compiled by State Treasurer Solomon Levitan.

Receipts this year totaled $151,708.70, while disbursements were $211,471.76. Rain on every day but one is believed to have materially cut the receipts, although the total for the fair just closed is still about $3,000 more than last year.

For the first time in the history of the fair the books of the event balanced exactly. The balance of the books in former years has shown a shortage of over $100.

An innovation of the fair this year was a banking department which cashed personal checks for visitors to the amount of about $25,000. There was no loss from this department, State Treasurer Levitan reports.

The daily receipts and disbursements respectively for each day follow:

Monday	$ 8,462.85	$ 5,629.79
Tuesday	24,101.08	34,831.15
Wednesday	25,375.00	34,147.59
Thursday	34,634.34	27,663.56
Friday	22,520.68	35,358.11
Saturday	36,607.25	72,841.56

WOMAN DOCTOR IS MOTHER OF TWINS AT 52 YEARS OF AGE

Little Rock, Ark.—Dr. C. A. DeValcise Towne, at the age of 52, is the proud mother of a set of twins, a bounding boy and an equally bounding girl.

They are the delight of the mother and her husband, C. E. Towne, now 73.

Dr. Towne was married at the age of 14 the first time, and has had 16 children, including another set of twins and triplets. Towne is her second husband. She is a native of France.

Who says that children coming late in a person's life don't bring as much happiness as the first born? Dr. Towne is a living example of the contrary.

EACH SUCCESSIVE SEASON THE GEENEN STORE RESPONDS TO FINER INSPIRATIONS, GREATER INCENTIVES AND LOFTIER ACHIEVEMENTS IN FASHION ATTAINMENT.

NEW FABRICS FOR FALL

Of course it would be too much to assert that the change in mode is due to fabric, but certainly Fabrics play an important role. Clever needlewomen have an advantage in selecting here, for the assortments are so varied. There are—

FLAT CREPES MOIRES
BROCADED CANTONS
CUT VELVETS SATIN CANTONS
CHIFFON VELVETS
—and many other new materials.

All the new Fall Colors are included. It is advisable to choose early while assortments are fresh and new. Priced from $3.50 to $12.00 a yd.

NEW TRIMMINGS

Charming, Clever and Complete

No doubt you have been reading about the new trimmings—and have admired them on some adorable frock. Why not have some on your new Fall things? Come in and see the new ones—they will suggest many easy ways to trim a one-piece wrap-around frock—a slim coat—a gleaming evening gown. Displays are complete now, from the most delicate tinsel braiding to the gorgeous widths of fur.

The New Frocks

Have Many New Style Features
$22.50 up to $89.75

Autumn Styles make their debut, and the prices that usher them in are attractive as the frocks themselves. The new style features, such as the tight sleeve, the fur trimming and the new coat effects and hidden pleats, together with the introduction of contrasting colors makes these new models almost irresistible.

Wool Dresses show an Oriental influence, especially in the use of embroidery for trimming. Satin, Jacqueline and Jacquard Crepe are among the favorites.

Modes For the Larger Women

Were Never More Easy to Find
$32.00 up to $59.75

The style this season seems to have been fashioned especially for large women. Youthful models with their slendering lines are shown in a wonderful assortment. The materials are Elizabeth crepe, Crepe Satin, Canton Crepe, Poirer Twill and combinations of Crepes and Lace. Sizes 42 up to 51.

New Fur Coats

For Fall and Winter
$125.00 up to $475.00

The furs are soft, supple, selected pelts. They are dyed by experts. The styles are smart and right up to the minute. A collection of fur coats we are proud of, beautiful, luxurious, well made coats. And you have the statement of this store, back of the genuineness of every garment. An important fact is that the coats this year are marked lower in price than the coats of equal quality were marked last year.
